Trends still unchanged

Economic data shows balance

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government said today its index foreshadowing economic trends remained unchanged in October after two months of steep decline. It indicated that the nation's economic slowdown might not worsen.

At the same time, the Commerce Department revised its index of leading economic indicators for the previous two months to show that it had declined even further than first reported.

The composite index was down eight-tenths of a per cent in August and nine-tenths of a per cent in September after the revisions, compared with the seven-tenths of a per cent decline reported earlier for both months.

The performance of the index in October was not entirely conclusive since economists say it takes at least three months to establish a trend.

Until the final component for the index was tabulated Tuesday, analysts feared the October index could be down for the third month in row. Many economists believe such a three-month trend would signal a new downturn in the economy.

President-elect Jimmy Carter said last month he will recommend a tax reduction or other steps to stimulate the economy if the slowdown continued much longer.

The flat performance for October likely will make economists want to wait another month before attempting to use the index to interpret the future course of the nation's economy.

One Commerce Department analyst said the previous declines probably reflected the economic slowdown that has already occurred rather than pointing to a new downturn.

Meanwhile, there were these economic developments:

—The United States recorded a trade deficit in October of $695.9 million, bringing the U.S. deficit for the first 10 months to $4.1 billion. October was the ninth month with a trade deficit this year.

—The Labor Department said the layoff rate of the nation's factories increased in October for the third consecutive month. Manufacturers laid off 1.7 workers per 100 employees in October, compared with 1.5 per 100 in September and 1.3 in August.

Factories also added fewer workers in October, with the rate of new hiring declining to 2.4 per 100 from 2.5 per 100 in September.

—The government's chief inflation

monitor said the Ford administration is "mystified" by the increase in steel prices and believes steel producers might have to back down because they could have trouble selling at the new prices.

William E. Lilley III, acting director of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, said he hopes steel producers aren't trying to increase prices out of concern that the new Carter administration will try to impose some kind of price restraints.

—Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said the economy is likely to need a hefty tax cut next year, possibly tied to a tax rebate, but that he doubts Congress would push for such a stimulus without Carter's backing.

—Farm prices dropped 3 per cent from Oct. 15 to Nov. 15, the Agriculture Department said.

Lower prices for grain, cattle and hogs, along with a sharp decline for grapefruit, contributed most to the drop. Higher prices for eggs and soybeans softened the decline.

Coffee Break . . .

TO AVOID possible damage to automobiles, residents on Yeoman and Willard streets from Elm Street to Ogle Street and Columbus Avenue are asked not to park along the curb after 11 a.m. Saturday.

Both streets will be closed to traffic after 12 noon Saturday to allow the annual Christmas parade to form. . . . If no automobiles are parked on the two streets, it will make preparation for the parade easier and also eliminate any possible damage to residents' autos. . . .

HAVE A problem involving the federal government? . . .

If so, Congressman William H. Harsha's mobile district office will be in Jeffersonville on Thursday. . . . The van will be located along Main Street and the office hours will be from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. . . .

William Fawley, Harsha's district representative, will be available to assist Sixth District residents seeking help with problems and projects involving the federal government. . . .

Those seeking such assistance should bring with them all pertinent information such as Social Security or Veterans Administration numbers and correspondence. . . .

THE FINAL show of 1976 of the Central Ohio Gun and Indian Relic Collectors Association will be held Saturday and Sunday on the Fayette County Fairgrounds. . . .

There will be no show in January. . . . The shows will resume in February. . . .

Coy A. Stookey, secretary-treasurer of the association, said the annual meeting of the association will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Mahan Building. . . . He said 1977 dues may be paid at the meeting. . . .

Despite his suspension, Andrews continued on the job as registrar, when Cook's order was overruled by Rhodes by telephone from Florida where the governor was spending a Thanksgiving holiday.

On Sunday, Cook said he felt Rhodes had "been sheltered from the truth" concerning Andrews. Asked to elaborate on that remark, he said, "I thought there were some facts that were put in my (suspension) order that the governor wasn't aware of."

PARADE ROUTE — Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce executive vice-president George Malek has announced the route for Saturday's Christmas parade. Two columns will be formed to begin the 2 p.m. parade, one on Yeoman Street and the other on Willard Street. The two columns will converge into one at the intersection of Delaware Street and Columbus Avenue and proceed through the downtown business district. The single column will break into at Court Street and Circle Avenue. The floats will continue on Court Street to the Fayette County Fairgrounds via Leesburg Avenue while marching groups will follow Circle Avenue to Gardner Park.

Matter not resolved

Rhodes aides study Cook-Andrews feud

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Aides to Gov. James A. Rhodes have been given first-hand, but separate accounts by two state officials involved in an embarrassing feud within the Republican Administration.

Highway Safety Director Donald D. Cook and the man he tried to suspend, Motor Vehicles Registrar Curtis Andrews, were tight-lipped after the sessions Tuesday, but both indicated the matter had not been resolved. Each met privately with the governor's two executive assistants, Thomas J. Moyer, and Roy Martin.

"They are still looking into it," Cook said after his one-hour meeting with the aides. "There has been nothing decided. They are going to investigate it further."

Rhodes was in another office and apparently decided to stay out of the controversy until Moyer, his chief advisor, and Martin, his appointments chief, heard both sides. They are expected to make a report to Rhodes, who, of course, must make the final decision.

The feud between Cook and Andrews, who by state law serves under Cook, broke into the open last week when it was learned that the safety director had ordered Andrews suspended for 20 working days.

Cook said he "absolutely" stood by his charges against the registrar and had documented them for Moyer and Martin.

Almost dormant fund designed to help crippled children

Hospital board can make Christmas merrier for handicapped

By PHIL LEWIS

Record-Herald City Editor

The most famous Christmas story written in the past two centuries dealt with a crippled boy, Tiny Tim, who had a merry Dec. 25 with the help of a Mr. Scrooge.

Charles Dickens' novel "A Christmas Carol," is mentioned not only because the yuletide season is approaching, but because one or more crippled children can have a merrier Dec. 25 with the help of the Fayette County Memorial Hospital board of trustees.

The hospital board has the means to aid crippled children in Fayette County. Unlike Scrooge in the story, the board doesn't need supernatural visitors to pry open the purse strings. It just needs somebody to apply for the funds left by the late Mrs. Sarah C. DeWitt.

Mrs. DeWitt, a former Fayette County resident who died in 1957, left the board $30,000 for aiding crippled children. That $30,000 has grown to $60,000, and the board is seeking needy recipients.

"We would like to use the money; that's what it is there for," said Robert L. Kunz, administrator at Fayette County Memorial Hospital.

The funds are to be used for the payment of medical bills of infantile paralysis victims and other crippled children whose parents are unable to meet the expenses.

"It (the fund) has been used over the years," Kunz said, "but not much." He added that the money has been untouched for the past two years.

The reason the money is growing in interest-bearing accounts is that most people don't know the fund exists. Also, federal and state programs that help defray medical expenses for crippled children are readily available.

Needy persons have learned about the money through their physicians in past years.

Any resident of Fayette County who has a crippled child is eligible for the aid. Being a county resident is the only major restriction. "The board has a broad interpretation on what is a crippled child," Kunz said.

Kunz added that the money can be used for medical care for patients in the county hospital or in a hospital outside the county. Therapeutic items such as special mattresses can be purchased through the DeWitt fund.

Kunz said a child is defined as any youth from one-week-old to 18-years-old.

The hospital board will gladly consider any requests for aid according to Kunz. All that is required is that the request be put in writing and submitted to Kunz at the hospital.

The fact that Mrs. DeWitt's son, Dwight, who died in 1936, was crippled is believed to have motivated her to establish the crippled children's fund.

FBI guards Korean 'defector'

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI agents reportedly are guarding a South Korean diplomat who has defied orders to return home and has begun cooperating with the Justice Department's probe of alleged South Korean influence-buying among U.S. congressmen.

Sources identified him Tuesday night as Kim Sang Keun, who is officially listed as a counselor at the South Korean Embassy but who reportedly was the top Korean Central Intelligence Agency officer here.

FBI agents reportedly were guarding Kim, his wife and family at an undisclosed location near here. Agents were also stationed at Kim's apartment in suburban McLean, Va.

Kim, 43, who had been named in recent news reports about the Korean influence-purchasing probe as a KCIA officer, reportedly feared the Seoul government would make him a scapegoat in the U.S. investigation of its lobbying activities.

The South Korean government reportedly has ordered home several officials to prevent them from cooperating with U.S. investigators.

The alleged influence-purchasing scheme reportedly was directed from the highest echelons of the Seoul government with the knowledge of the South Korean president.

Deaths, Funerals

Mrs. Iva E. Jones

Mrs. Iva E. Jones, 84, of 1208 Rawlings St., died at 5:10 p.m. Tuesday in the Margaret Clark Kohl Convalescent Center, where she had been a patient three years.

Born in Pickaway County, Mrs. Jones had resided in Washington C.H. for several years. Her husband, Pearl E. Jones, died in 1953.

She is survived by eight sons, Delbert, of Chana, Ill.; Paul of 1146 E. Temple St.; Ralph of 1572 Dennis St.; Merle of 409 Sixth St.; William of Circleville; Charles and Ray of Columbus, and Harley of Rawlings St.; three daughters, Mrs. Leora Palmer of Tarleton, Mrs. Betty Webb of Harrisburg, and Mrs. Bernice Bonness of Edgewater Park; 33 grandchildren, 40 great-grandchildren and five step-great-grandchildren; and two sisters, Mrs. Bessie Sadler and Mrs. Mae Bennett, both of Columbus.

Services will be held at 10 a.m. Friday in the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home with the Rev. Stan Toler officiating. Burial will be in Washington Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 2 until 9 p.m. Thursday.

Mrs. Joseph Crawford

MOUNT STERLING — Mrs. Eleanor M. Crawford, 78, of Rt. 1, Mount Sterling, died at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday in Fayette County Memorial Hospital, Washington C.H.

Born in Fayette County, Mrs. Crawford is survived by her husband, Joseph; three brothers, Ernest Sollars, of Mount Sterling, Homer Sollars, of London, and Weldon Sollars, of Orient; and a sister, Mrs. Charles (Grace) Brown, of Washington C.H.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Friday in the Porter Funeral Home, Mount Sterling, with the Rev. Harold Messmer officiating. Burial will be in Pleasant Cemetery, Mount Sterling.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 2 p.m. Thursday.

MRS. PAUL HUFF — Services for Mrs. Ruth E. Huff, 52, of Williamsport, were held at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home, New Holland, with the Rev. Leroy Newsome officiating.

Mrs. Huff, wife of Paul Huff, was a former employee of the Jackson Glove Manufacturing Co. in Washington C.H. before moving to Williamsport 18 years ago. She died Saturday.

Bev Whitten sang two hymns accompanied at the piano by Jean Valone. Pallbearers for the burial in Springlawn Cemetery, Williamsport, were Ken and Lonnie Rigsby, Virgil Leach, Bill Kirby, Bus Whitten and Paul Spangler.

and marching units will be mixed into a single column by Malek and members of the citizens band radio club. The units will fall into the lineup as shown in the table.

The entire parade will move west on Court Street through the downtown business district. The parade will divide at Circle Avenue. Marching units will turn left onto Circle Avenue and continue marching into Gardner Park where parents or friends may wait in cars. These cars are to be parked on High Street or in Gardner Park, not along Circle Avenue.

Floats, with their riders sitting firmly on top, will proceed down Leesburg Avenue (U.S. 62 S) and continue past Fairview Drive to the rear parking area at the Fayette County Fairgrounds. Night Owl members will help direct the floats to this rear parking area where riders automobiles may be waiting.

After the parade, all participants are invited to visit Santa Claus on the steps of the Fayette County Courthouse. After riding in the parade he will be returned to the Courthouse to take Christmas gift requests and distribute candy to the youngsters.

Participants are asked to clip this article as well as the lineup chart on page 5 and bring it with them Saturday.

Common Cause raps energy panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Common Cause, the public interest lobbying organization, charged today that the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy was a "huckster for the nuclear power industry" and should be abolished.

In issuing a 38-page report, Common Cause President David Cohen said the committee "provides a platform to nuclear power supporters while it rarely hears the critics and never listens to them."

"It ignores safety issues and cost overruns while it protects federal investments in its members' states and districts. It is the classic special interest committee to the ninth power."

Common Cause said the powers now held by the 18-member panel, headed by retiring Sen. John O. Pastore, D.R.I., should be given to House and Senate committees that are responsible for U.S. energy policies.

Congressional leaders can start eliminating the panel by refusing to replace retiring members or those who lost reelection, the report said. Besides Pastore, four members will not return in January.

There has been speculation that a move will be made to abolish the panel, partly because of concern about its constitutionality. It is unique as the only joint committee with power to draft legislation.

An aide to Pastore said he had not seen the Common Cause report and the senator would have no immediate comment on its allegations.

Common Cause said the joint panel, established in 1947 to help oversee development of nuclear weapons, has a lock on congressional consideration of nuclear power issues.

The committee "has the power to completely shut off the possibility of alternative legislation or of testimony," Common Cause said. The report said the panel "totally directs the progress of all legislation concerning nuclear power in both houses."

In its report, entitled "Stacking the Deck," Common Cause said that in the past 23 years the panel has heard only 98 public interest group witnesses, an average of fewer than five per year, compared to 2,531 government witnesses and 1,109 industry representatives.

Common Cause said committee members actively promoted nuclear development because they represented states where there was a heavy investment by the nuclear industry. Twelve of the 18 members represent six states that received more than half of the $5.5 billion the U.S. Energy and Research Administration approved for nuclear plants in the 1976 and 1977 fiscal years, Common Cause said.

Price fixing sentences levied

CHICAGO (AP) — Penalties ranging up to 60 days in jail and a $35,000 fine have been imposed on 47 executives involved in what the government calls a conspiracy by most of America's big cardboard box makers to fix prices.

"Because of this kind of price accommodation, the manufacturer ... pays more than he would if there were clean competition between the producer," Judge James B. Parsons of U.S. District Court said Tuesday in imposing the penalties. "Presumably the cost is passed along to the ultimate consumer."

The penalties ranged from 60 days in jail and a $35,000 fine for R. Harper Brown, president of Container Corp. of America, to $100 fines for a couple of defendants. Sixteen defendants were sentenced to jail terms. Container Corp. is one of the nation's largest firms with annual sales in the $1 billion range.

The judge allowed defendants with shorter sentences, some of four or five days, to serve them in work-release programs, allowing them to go to their jobs during business hours.

The indictment charged the defendants with a conspiracy to violate the Sherman Antitrust Act by rigging the prices in the folding carton manufacturing industry, mainly involving cardboard boxes.

Parsons imposed fined of $15,000 to $50,000 on 22 corporations charged in the indictment after they pleaded no contest and were found guilty. The executives also pleaded no contest and were found guilty. Another executive also pleaded no contest and his sentencing was set for Dec. 10.

One corporation, Consolidated Packaging of Chicago, and two executives, Vern A. Kepford, general manager for national sales of the Potlatch Corp. of San Francisco, and Melvin E. Riecke, a vice president of Consolidated Packaging, pleaded innocent and are awaiting trial.

The case involved most of the large and medium-sized companies in the industry.

Parsons said he will hold hearings over much of next month, including Christmas week, on any motions for the reduction of the sentences.

In deciding not to jail all of the defendants on the charges, which were misdemeanors, Parsons said: "The so-called tough judge often is simplistic or in search of public approval rather than justice."

Those sentenced, their terms and the fines include:

Gerald Adams, manager, internal operations, folding cartons, The Mead Corp., Dayton, Ohio, $1,500 fine; Frank D. Bergstein, president, Interstate Folding Co., Middletown, Ohio, 10 days in jail and a $10,000 fine; Robert D. Weyman, sales manager, retail area, Diamond International Corp., Middletown, Ohio, $1,000 fine; Paul Wilch Jr., division vice president, Diamond International Corp., 15 days in jail and $20,000 fine.

Tongsun Park reportedly has admitted giving cash and gifts to some congressmen, but he has denied he was a Korean government agent or that he did anything illegal. An attorney for his Washington firm, Pacific Development Corp., recently told the Justice Department he has advised Park not to cooperate with the probe because of repeated leaks to the press.

The Washington Star reported Tuesday that Park was not planning to return to the United States and that he has put two of his lavish Washington properties up for sale.

In Seoul today, the Foreign Ministry refused to comment on Kim's action. The South Korean government has denied that there was any influence-peddling scheme.

Most of the lower Great Lakes also were affected.

There was scattered rain in southern Florida.

Temperatures were about 30 degrees higher today across northern Minnesota, but still around zero and expected to dip even lower Friday night to about 30 below zero.

Skies were generally clear in the rest of the country, except for low cloudiness and fog along the Pacific coast.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 67 at Point Mugu, Calif., to four below zero at International Falls, Minn., Fargo, N.D., and Wausau, Wisc.

Cold winter predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most of the nation is in for the coldest winter in recent years, the U.S. Weather Service says.

The service, updating its long-range forecast for winter, said Monday that northern air currents will carry cold arctic air further south into the nation's eastern half this winter.

The Southwest, the Ohio Valley, the southern Great Plains as far west as New Mexico and the Middle Atlantic as far north as New York all will experience colder temperatures than normal, the service said.

But temperatures above normal were forecast for the Dakotas and Wyoming to the Pacific Coast all the way south to Mexico.

If winter temperatures follow the pattern described, they will have broken away from the pattern of the last five years — that is mild in the East or mild throughout the nation — and return to a pattern that was common in the 1960s," the forecast said.

School bus brake hazard

No school district should need a reminder that particular care must be taken to keep old buses up to snuff. Some school systems, however, are less scrupulous about this than they might be. This lends point to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration's current warning. The message is: If the shoe fits, wear it.

The warning is about brakes - brakes that may fail because hydraulic tubing is weakened by rust and corrosion. A rupture in this tubing, a spokesman for the agency observed, may bring "a catastrophic loss of braking capability in vehicles equipped with single hydraulic brake systems."

Splashup from the road is the villain. Though the problem is worst in areas where salt or other chemicals are used on roads to control ice and snow, rust is a factor even where this is not done. Pre-1969 buses are the most vulnerable because their protective brake line coating is not as thick as that on later models. But all buses in use for several years need attention.

The Traffic Safety Administration recommends brake tubing inspection at least once a year. Exposed tubing should be washed periodically, it says; corroded tubing should be replaced. The good sense in these precautions is self-evident. They should be made a part of routine school bus maintenance.

THESE DAYS By John Chamberlain

GOP split will not easily be healed

William Rusher, the publisher of National Review who has labored so indefatigably to establish the case for a new majority party, thinks the label "Republican" has no more sales value. The American Conservative Union doesn't quite agree with him: Its policy committee advocates changing the name of the G.O.P. to "Conservative-Republican" or "Independent-Republican."

But it is not the name that will count, it is the reality of the party's composition.

The conservatives want Ronald Reagan to serve as the spearhead personality for a complete changeover both in the precincts and at the national committee level. I devoutly hope that Reagan will spend the next couple of years doing his effective missionary work in the conservative cause. But the "cause" conservatives should be warned: They aren't going to have any easy task in wrenching the control of the G.O.P. away from the pragmatic conservatives. I hated to read the election analysis put out by the pragmatists in the November issue of the Ripon Forum. It foreshadows a tremendous Republican argument in the next two years. Reagan, I believe, could have won the November election by taking some of the Southern states away from Carter. But a Reagan victory would have been a triumph of personality, not a triumph of principle.

The truth is that lesser Republicans of unassailable conservative ideological credentials fared very badly in the more populous areas of the country. Where the conservatives won - in New Mexico with Schmitt, with Hatch in Utah, with Wallop in Wyoming - it was pretty much in places that have little electoral college strength. True enough, Hayakawa beat John Tunney in California, but this was a special personality triumph that had little to do with party labels.

The conservatives lost Jim Buckley in New York and Brock in Tennessee. Taft of Ohio was another casualty. On the other hand, Republicans who deliberately avoided an ideological tag won handily. Weicker in Connecticut, Chafee in Rhode Island and Lugar in Indiana have some conservative coloration, but they are hardly of the Reaganite persuasion.

There is too much truth for comfort in the Ripon Republicans' contention that Ford and his ticket lost because of the lack of an urban strategy, by which they mean lack of a Middle Western and a Northeastern strategy. Conservative Republican challengers for House seats were generally unsuccessful in New Jersey even though Ford carried the state. A most arrant Connecticut Democratic liberal, Toby Moffett, won his sophomore election to the House even though the case that he had been entirely too sophomore as a freshman was incontestable. And why the egregious Father Drinan could not have been knocked off in Massachusetts must be a mystery. The Republicans let him get away with everything short of murder.

The Riponites think the future is bright for Progressive Republicans. I don't think it is bright for Republicans of any shading unless Jimmy Carter mangles his opportunities in the White House. But this is not the point when it comes to predicting the realities of party reorganization. Simply because Ford did better than Carter in the definitely Reaganite states west of the tree line that extends south from western Minnesota to Oklahoma, the reorganizational nod ought to go to the Reaganites who almost gave Jerry a second-term lease on the White House. It was not the Rockefellers or the Elliot Richardsons who wrote the Republican platform and enabled Ford to make it close.

But in spite of the logical claims of Reaganites to Republican control, the Ripon contention that the "base progressive talent" represented in the Senate by "moderates" such as John Heinz of Pennsylvania, John Chafee of Rhode Island, John Danforth of Missouri, Charles Mathias of Maryland, Charles Percy of Illinois, Edward Brooke of Massachusetts, Lowell Weicker of Connecticut and Mark Hatfield and Robert Packwood of Oregon is going to make it difficult for the conservatives to rebaptize the G.O.P. as the Conservative-Republican party.

We could be in for a republican bloodletting, and if it comes, it will take place in an organism that is already all too debilitated. If the Republicans stage a comeback at the polls in 1978, it will be because of Democratic failure, not because of any particular astuteness in either conservative or liberal Republican circles.

Males still earning more than women

WASHINGTON (AP) — The average man working full-time in 1974 earned about $5,000 more than the average woman, the Labor Department says.

Furthermore, the gap between male and female incomes has increased drastically in the past two decades, the department reported Sunday.

In 1955, men were earning about 56.4 per cent more than women. By 1974, the gap had widened to 74.8 per cent.

In 1974, the median earnings of women were $6,772, compared with $11,835 for men — a difference of $5,063, or nearly $100 a week.

The report, based on Census Bureau data, blamed two primary factors for the widening gap: a continued concentration of women in low-skilled, low-paying jobs, and a sharp rise in the number of women entering the work force at beginners' level jobs.

Labor Department analysts said that even considering those factors and the shorter average lifetime work experience of women, "much of the male-female differential remains unexplained" and discrimination may be involved.

The report said that in constant dollars, taking inflation into account, the gap between the earnings of men and women rose from $1,911 in 1955 to $3,433 in 1974.

Although women comprised 31.8 per cent of the full-time, year-round work force, they make up only 5.3 per cent of workers earning $15,000 or more in 1974.

More than 80 per cent of the regularly employed women earned less than $10,000, while only 38 per cent of men working regularly make under $10,000, the report said.

Women accounted for 63 per cent of workers earning between $3,000 and $4,999 in 1974, and for 58 per cent of those earning $5,000 to $6,999.

The report also found that a once wide gap between the earnings of white and black women is narrowing. Black women working full-time in 1974 averaged 94 per cent as much pay as white women; in 1960, black women averaged only 70 per cent as much.

The average black man working full-time earned $9,082 in 1974, or 73.4 per cent of the average white man's full-time earnings of $12,343.

The report said women of all races are "clearly overrepresented among those workers whose earnings are low."

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: "IMMORTALITY," SAID A FAMOUS CHINESE STATESMAN, "IS WHEN A MAN DIES BUT HIS WORDS LIVE." — CARL CROW

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Their affair is not your affair

DEAR ABBY: One of the girls I work with has fallen head over heels for a guy she couldn't know very well. Either that, or she's led a very sheltered life.

I've known this guy for years. He's a closet queen who uses girls as a cover-up.

I hate to see this girl get hurt because she is really crazy about him. If he should go so far as to marry her, it can't last very long because he's the type who never stays with one lover very long, but needs a nice straight woman to be seen in public with.

Should I tell her what she's got herself mixed up with? Or let her keep going with him until he breaks her heart?

NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: The guy could be bisexual, and it's also possible that he has decided to go the straight route. Since it's not possible for you to know what's in his head, I suggest you mind your own business. P.S. Maybe she knows all about him, but loves him anyway.

DEAR ABBY: We are a group of professional middleclass couples who often get together in each other's homes for good conversation. Each hostess serves something.

One of the couples serves on paper plates. Her excuse us that she works and must conserve her energy, and although most of us work, we feel that this is her right. However, whether it's inside or a barbecue, she uses plastic forks, knives and spoons, which she washes and saves for the next party!

We have hinted that as long as she washes the plastic tablewear for her next party she might as well use silverware, but she doesn't seem to understand.

Abby, if you've ever tried to eat borscht with a plastic spoon, or macaroni salad with a plastic fork, you'll know what we mean.

After her last party, our husbands told us not to accept another invitation to this couple's home. Our hints have done no good, and we like her too much to drop her. Any suggestions?

PLEASE, NO PLASTIC

DEAR PLEASE: Quit hinting. Come right out and ask her to please save the plastic for picnics and to use silverware. And if that doesn't help, but you like her too much to drop her, bring your own silverware.

DEAR ABBY: I am 16 and unmarried. Just recently I gave up my baby for adoption. I loved that baby more than anything in the world, and that is why I didn't keep him.

I loved him enough to know that he would have a better home and a better chance in life with a mother and father, someone who is older and better able to care for him than I am.

I still have another year of high school. I would not really have been around long enough to give my son the love and care he deserves.

So when people ask, "How could you give your baby away," my answer is, "Because I loved him."

Class plans holiday party

The Golden Rule Class of the New Holland United Methodist Church held its regular monthly meeting in the church social room. Mrs. Pauline Kirk, class president, recognized Mrs. Esther Zellers and Mrs. Shirley Tarbill as the program co-chairmen, who presented Mrs. Patti Briggs' interesting demonstration of the Micro-Wave Oven, loaned by the Kirk's Furniture in New Holland.

Mrs. Lucille Haggard led the worship by reading from Psalms 100 and 107. In her meditation she gave "All live on grumble street, now move to Thanksgiving Street, and that God has two dwellings: heaven and in a loving heart."

Miss Ford guest of honor at shower

Miss Diana Ford, bride-elect of Ed Armintrout, whose marriage will be an event of Saturday, Dec. 4, was honored at a bridal shower in the home of Mrs. Doug Ford. Decorations were in gold and blue with "Congratulations, Diana and Ed" in full view.

Game winners were Miss Kerrell J. Brown and Mrs. David M. Ford, who in turn presented their gifts to the honor guest.

Present were Mrs. Donald G. Ford and Mrs. Glenn Armintrout, mothers of the couple, Miss Darlene Ford, Mrs. David M. Ford, the Misses Brenda Hart, Claudia Self, Kerrill J. Brown and Mrs. Marvin Mathews. Others invited were the Misses Patricia Bick, Brenda Burns, Stacey Gregory, Joy Harper, Pamela and Angela Holbert, Janet Van Bibber, Linda Seyfang, and Mrs. Tom Braden, Mrs. Sonny Kearns, Mrs. Terry Miller, Mrs. Stan Toler, Mrs. Terry Toler, Mrs. Tim Waters and Mrs. Donald Webster of Columbus.

Presidents' Council plans luncheon

Fayette County Garden Club Council will meet at Anderson's Restaurant at 12:30 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 2, for lunch. All presidents and county fair flower show chairmen are asked to be present. If they cannot attend, each club must send a representative, for it is necessary to begin planning the schedule for the Fayette County Fair which is due by March 1.

Bazaar set Saturday

A variety of baked goods, Christmas items, crocheted and knitted items will be available at the annual holiday bazaar planned at the former Moore's Store, 134 W. Court St., from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 4.

The bazaar is being sponsored by the Maple Grove United Methodist Church. Everyone is welcomed to attend.

Marriage vows exchanged in bride's parents home

Flanked by ivy-twined candelabra, the Rev. Richard McDowell united in marriage Miss Kimberly Long and Mr. Mark E. Davey. Kimberly is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David M. Long of Route 1, New Holland, and Mark is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ned S. Davey of Springfield.

The ceremony took place in the home of the bride's parents.

The bride, given in marriage by her mother and father, wore for her wedding day a long white quiana gown, featuring a fitted bodice with high neckline with lace appliques and long tapered sleeves. The skirt fell in soft folds and swirled into a long train at the back. Her illusion veil edged in Alencon lace was held in place by a beaded mantilla cap. The bride carried a colonial bouquet of carnations, daisies and roses. Her jewelry was a diamond pendant and earrings, a gift from the groom.

Mrs. Jill Riddle was matron of honor for her sister. Her long gown was of bittersweet questa nylon and featured a fitted bodice with mandarin neckline and long tapered sleeves. She wore a cameo necklace, a gift from the bride. Her colonial bouquet was of bronze and gold daisies and carnations.

DAR chapter to meet

The Washington C.H. Chapter, DAR, will meet at 2 p.m. Monday with Mrs. John P. Case, 330 Jupiter St., for the December session.

"Music, Our Heritage" will be the afternoon theme. Mrs. Case, an accomplished musician, has arranged a most delightful program for the guests. Her selections will carry out the ideas with the music of all forefathers in mind.

Assisting hostesses will be Miss Elizabeth Trent, Mrs. Worley Melvin, Mrs. Virtus Kruse, Mrs. Kenneth Johnson, Mrs. Leland Stevens, Mrs. Gilbert Adams, Mrs. Ernest Stanforth, Miss Lida Grace Wissler, Mrs. Henry Engle, Mrs. Karl Kellenberger and Mrs. Glenn McCoy.

What's new at the library?

Book nook

By ERIC HALVERSON
Library Director

The biggest drain on a library book budget is the "unauthorized borrowing" (or more plainly "theft") of books. The second heaviest burden on the book buying power of a library is the non-return of charged out material. And the huge dollar loss represents only part of the real cost of this problem.

The cost of a missing book must also be measured in other ways.

What is the value of a book that is out of print and can't be replaced? How do you value the disappointment of a shut-in who has been waiting for a book only to be told it is "lost". What is the value to a student who needs it to prepare for an upcoming exam, or job interview? What value does a community put on the opportunities lost because the information was stolen?

Perhaps the thought "What's one book?" encourages people to keep books beyond the due date or "borrow" them without proper check out. Perhaps the same thought keeps library users from demanding action when they can't find the book they need. But sadly it's not one book, or even hundreds or thousands of books. It's millions of books across the nation each year and it's costing Americans in increased taxes and lost opportunity.

The books most commonly removed from libraries or kept beyond the due date are reference books which are expensive and definitely useful and best sellers. In some libraries, more than 20 per cent of all new fiction vanishes in less than one year.

Washington C.H. does not suffer from the same book loss as a New York City; however, at any given time a significant number of books are overdue, unaccounted for or lost and presumed stolen. It costs the Carnegie Public Library almost $17 to put a book on the shelves. To cut the final loss, this first Christmas week there is a major effort going on to recover lost or overdue books. The library is not collecting fines on any material returned from November 29 to December 4. The library is open from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through

MARK ROARK

KATHY JUNK

Miami Trace 'Seniors of the Week'

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roark are the parents of Mark Roark who is our first senior of the week. They reside at 794 Knollwood Circle in Lakewood Hills. Mark's courses this semester are Advanced Math, Physiology, Speech, International Studies, Government and Advanced Physics one day a week. He has enjoyed his studies throughout his years and also has been associated with Concert and Symphonic bands, the Science Club and is the Vice-president of National Honor Society this year. He is a member of the Hillsboro Church of the Bible Covenant and is a Sunday School superintendent.

In his spare time, Mark likes to play the bass guitar, play sports such as tennis, softball and basketball and enjoys stamp collecting and listening to gospel music.

Mark plans after graduation to attend God's Bible School in Cincinnati and then later transfer to a university, possibly Ohio State, and enter its School of Optometry.

Mark feels the highlight of his years at Miami Trace was being inducted into the National Honor Society which he thought was a great honor.

Next is Kim Brown who is the daughter of Mrs. Dolores Brown and lives at 2058 Greenfield-Sabina Road.

This year she was the secretary for the Future Business Leaders of America Club and a member of the Linguistic Arts Club. Her subjects include Office Practice, Business English, Record Keeping, Government, Spanish I, Business Law and is an athletic department secretary for Mr. Hill.

Kim's hobbies are swimming, fishing, badminton, and taking care of animals. She plans to travel after high school and then work as a secretary.

What Kim said about her years at Trace was that they seem to go slow at first and then they go so fast you wonder where they went to. She advises the underclassmen to just enjoy it.

Brant Dunn is another featured senior this week. He is the son of Mrs. Marilyn Dunn and resides at 7268 Ohio 753-SE.

His subjects that keep him busy are Physics, Business Law, Advanced Math, English Comp, American Literature, Family Living and Government. He has been selected to be a member of the National Honor Society, SCOL Student Council President, and also vice-president of the Student Council at Miami Trace. Brant plays varsity baseball and basketball and is a member of the Varsity M Club.

He mentioned his favorite hobbies as water skiing and dancing and just being with his girlfriend. He plans in the future to possibly go to Miami University and major in Systems Analysis.

Brant's advice to all the underclassmen was to get out, meet people while you can. He said after you leave Trace and go your separate ways, you may never see one another again.

Kathy Junk, who lives with her parents and sister at 1973 U.S. 62-NE, is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. D.R. Junk. She and her parents are hosting AFS student Patty Ulloa from Bogota, Colombia, this year.

Her activities through the years have included 4-H (9 yrs.), In-the-Know (3 years), Folksingers (3 years), Musicals (3 years), AFS (4 years), Marching, Symphonic, Pep, and Stage Bands, National Honor Society, is listed in Who's Who and is editor of the Miami Tracer Page. She is taking, this semester, American Literature, British Literature, Advanced Math, Art, Family Living and Government. She also attends Fayette Bible Church.

Kathy enjoys singing, dancing, meeting new people, going to movies and playing a rousing game of tennis. She plans to hopefully travel in the summer and attend Ohio State University in the fall, major in communications and then maybe later on law school.

Her advice to underclassmen is, "Make the most of your years at Trace by getting involved and trying out for things." Highlights of Kathy's years at Trace were being relieved after the musicals and marching band were over and practicing for In-the-Know.

School chapter of Future Farmers of America (FFA) and the "biggest business in the world" is agriculture.

The local FFA program was the topic discussed at the regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Washington C.H. Rotary Club Tuesday in the Country Club.

Charles Andrews, a vocational agriculture instructor and a FFA chapter advisor, said the local program is aimed at "building pride in the young people and in agriculture."

Andrews said the program does not train young people to be farmers, but to acquaint them with various aspects of the agri-business field.

The local FFA chapter, Andrews said, has 136 students, 32 of which are girls. Of the more than 360 FFA chapters in Ohio, the Miami Trace chapter ranks fourth.

The chapter competes in a number of state contests including livestock judging, tractor troubleshooting, parliamentary procedure and public speaking.

Andrews said the enrollment in the program is limited since more students apply than can be handled with the number of instructors.

In addition to providing students with a basic background of the agri-business field, Andrews said the program also offers specialized curriculum. The program offers 18 to 20 weeks of specialized instruction in such areas as animal science, welding and mechanics.

A 10-minute color slide presentation on the importance of farming was given by Andrews. The slide presentation pointed out there are 4.5 million workers involved in U.S. agriculture, the average size of a U.S. farm is now 395 acres and that the average farmer feeds 50 other people besides himself. It also explained that today's farmer must be a scientist, an agronomist, a nutritionist, a chemist, an engineer, a salesman, an ecologist and above all a manager.

Accompanying Andrews were FFA chapter vice president Beth Jinks, treasurer Doug Miller and assistant treasurer Fred Melvin.

Miller reported on the annual fruit sale now being planned by the local chapter. The sale is the major fund-raising project of the year and local chapter members expect to sell $30,000 worth of fruit this year.

Miss Jinks spoke on the various production projects available to local chapter members such as livestock, shop and work experience programs.

The meeting was conducted by club president Dr. George Pommert and John Rhoad arranged the program.

Visiting Rotarians were Charles Pitts of London and Darrell French of Wilmington. Alan Mossbarger was a guest with Don Kirk and student guests were Jerry Curnutt of Miami Trace High School and Tom Dean of Washington Senior High School.

KENT, Wash. (AP) — When it comes to sculpture, Roland Winbeckler takes the cake. He also takes butter cream and chocolate frosting.

Winbeckler, 30, is among the world's leading cake sculptors. His status was certified last month when he picked up two gold medals at the World Culinary Olympics in Frankfurt, West Germany.

"It's really rare for the judges to award more than one gold medal," Winbeckler said. "I think they especially liked the pound-cake crab and the chocolate paintings."

His fame preceded him. Winbeckler, who never thought about sculpture in any medium until he took a bakery job five years ago, has done hundreds of cakes for groups and personalities around the country.

Last month, for example, Winbeckler created a life-size Col. Harlan Sanders, bucket of chicken in hand, for the colonel's 86th birthday.

When the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Circus ordered a cake for their lion tamer's birthday, it featured a life-size Bengal tiger jumping from the center.

Top sculptor with cakes enjoys work

Winbeckler said he's also been asked about doing birthday cakes for entertainers Lucille Ball and Sammy Davis Jr.

Government intrusion into farming rapped

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Government intrusion into private industry is a major obstacle facing agriculture, the executive vice president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation told delegates to the group's 58th annual meeting Tuesday.

C. William Swank said government intrusion into private industry when the country is not at war and when the industry is not asking for it "is a giant step toward nationalization of the industry."

Swank said such action is more dangerous than an absolute takeover. Although he does not foresee such a takeover in agriculture, he said there exists the possibility of meddling in the price-making process.

"This could have the effect of taking away opportunity for profit in the name of stabilizing food prices for the benefit and comfort of consumers," Swank said.

"This process could result in less food being available and in the long run result in higher prices, rather than lower."

Swank stressed that farmers, in order to keep agriculture free, must point out that every consumer will be better off with a highly efficient and productive agriculture and that the economy will benefit from such a system.

Swank was critical of those who propose eating less meat in this country to help the malnourished of the world.

"This action is damaging unless an equivalent amount of money for the meat is sent to these people so they can buy food," he said. "We don't have a food problem in hungry nations, we have an income problem."

Swank said agriculture cannot solve the moral aspect of the problem, but added, "if all we do is dampen the demand for food in this country, driving down the price, we will make little advance in feeding hungry people."

"This could have the effect of taking away opportunity for profit in the name of stabilizing food prices for the benefit and comfort of consumers," Swank said.

"This process could result in less food being available and in the long run

Battery theft checked

Washington C.H. police officers investigated an alleged battery theft Tuesday, while Fayette County sheriff's deputies reported a mailbox larceny.

Royal Kearns Jr., 420 Broadway St., told police officers that sometime between 5 p.m. Monday and 6 a.m. Tuesday, a $60 battery was removed from his automobile while it was parked at the rear of his residence.

A mailbox and nameplate valued at $16 belonging to Clifford Daugherty, 2400 U.S. 62-SW, were reportedly removed from a post sometime around 3 a.m. Tuesday.

Alert neighbor subdues blaze

Due to the efforts of an alert neighbor, a fire in a Washington C.H. home was extinguished Tuesday, Washington C.H. firemen reported.

Robert Mitchell, 414 W. Elm St., succeeded in removing and extinguishing a blazing pan of grease which had caught fire at 5:58 p.m. Tuesday on a stove in the Ely San-derson residence, 418 W. Elm St.

Noticing flames coming from the kitchen area of the apparently unattended residence, Mitchell removed the burning pan of grease and meat, and extinguished the fire outside.

The fire was out by the time firemen had arrived, though damages to the house were estimated at $300.

Danny Murtaugh hit by stroke

CHESTER, Pa. (AP) — Danny Murtaugh, who retired at the end of last season as manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, has been hospitalized with a stroke, believed serious.

He was taken by ambulance from his home in nearby Woodlyn Tuesday to Crozier-Chester Medical Center and placed in the intensive care unit.

A hospital spokesman said Murtaugh, who celebrated his 59th birthday Oct. 8, was semiconscious and resting comfortably.

Helicopter used

Deputies assist in apprehension of two suspects

Fayette County sheriff's deputies combined forces early Wednesday with a Columbus police helicopter crew and members of two other law enforcement agencies in the apprehension of two burglary suspects.

While on routine patrol at approximately 2 a.m. Wednesday, Fayette County sheriff's deputies Charles W. Wise and Donald L. Cox were dispatched to the scene of an alleged burglary just south of the Fayette-Pickaway county line.

A Pickaway County sheriff's deputy had requested aid from the Fayette County Sheriff's Department and the Mount Sterling Police Department after he had observed two men fleeing from Bob's One Stop Market, Ohio 207.

A Columbus police helicopter arrived on the scene, and, using searchlights that reportedly are capable of completely illuminating an area the size of a football field, it spotted the alleged thieves who were then captured in a Pickaway County field near the market.

The suspects, currently incarcerated in the Pickaway County jail, were identified as Joe M. Boggs, 19, and Dennis R. Collins, 19, both of Mount Sterling.

The two men have been charged by Pickaway County authorities with burglary.

'Queen Kong' under fire

LONDON (AP) — King Kong has won the first round in his gorilla war with a female impersonator.

The High Court banned the distribution of the British movie "Queen Kong" on Tuesday until the courts decide a suit by the King's sponsors charging the makers of the British film with copyright infringement.

The copyright suit was brought by RKO, which made the 1933 classic, and Dino de Laurentiis, whose $20-million remake is opening in the United States this month.

"Queen Kong" is the work of Dexter

Films and cost $632,000. It takes the Queen to the top of the London Post Office tower, in emulation of King Kong's New York climb to the top of the Empire State Building in 1933 and to the top of the World Trade Center in 1976.

One of the King's attorneys, Nicholas Browne-Wilkinson, told the High Court that "Queen Kong" has "an appalling script" which RKO and De Laurentiis "feel cannot do anything but reperce poorly on their reputation if it is thought that King Kong is associated with that."

Government intrusion into farming rapped

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Government intrusion into private industry is a major obstacle facing agriculture, the executive vice president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation told delegates to the group's 58th annual meeting Tuesday.

C. William Swank said government intrusion into private industry when the country is not at war and when the industry is not asking for it "is a giant step toward nationalization of the industry."

Swank said such action is more dangerous than an absolute takeover. Although he does not foresee such a takeover in agriculture, he said there exists the possibility of meddling in the price-making process.

"This could have the effect of taking away opportunity for profit in the name of stabilizing food prices for the benefit and comfort of consumers," Swank said.

"This process could result in less food being available and in the long run result in higher prices, rather than lower."

Swank stressed that farmers, in order to keep agriculture free, must point out that every consumer will be better off with a highly efficient and productive agriculture and that the economy will benefit from such a system.

Swank was critical of those who propose eating less meat in this country to help the malnourished of the world.

"This action is damaging unless an equivalent amount of money for the meat is sent to these people so they can buy food," he said. "We don't have a food problem in hungry nations, we have an income problem."

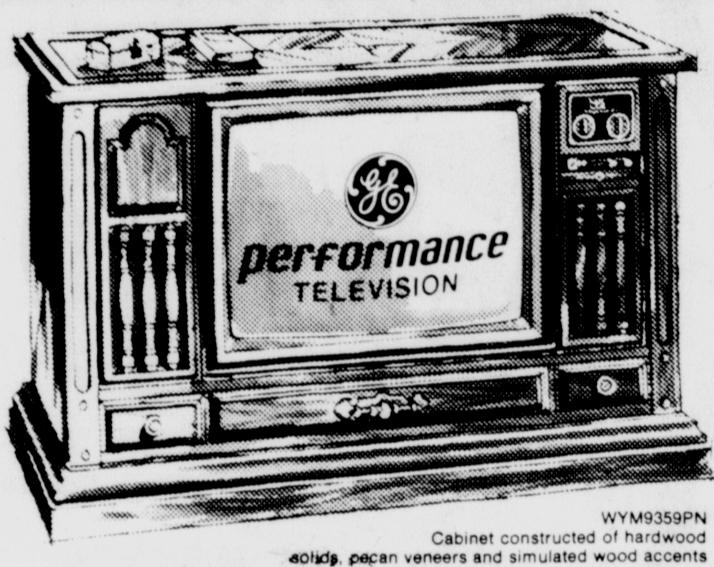

Swank said agriculture cannot solve the moral aspect of the problem, but added, "if all we do is dampen the demand for food in this country, driving down the price, we will make little advance in feeding hungry people."

"This could have the effect of taking away opportunity for profit in the name of stabilizing food prices for the benefit and comfort of consumers," Swank said.

"This process could result in less food being available and in the long run

Santa and the Giant Fighter

ONCE UPON A time there lived a little boy named William Henry Christopher Preeserve.

What a remarkably long name for a small boy to have! What was even more remarkable was the amount of disturbance he caused.

Boys are sometimes naughty, everyone knows, and they are expected to be a problem now and then. But it seemed that because this boy had three names he got into as much trouble as three boys!

For one thing he did not like school. He day-dreamed. He talked out loud. He made strange faces. And he simply would not study his lessons.

"Two plus two and six minus four!" he complained to his mother. "Who cares about all that? When I grow up I am going to be a giant killer. I don't have to study for that."

His mother told him there were no such things as giants but William Henry Christopher insisted there were. He said giants were bigger than mountains and meaner than witches and a whole army of soldiers could not strike a strong giant down.

"You know perfectly well that's all make-believe," said his mother.

"It is not make-believe! I myself have seen lots of giants!"

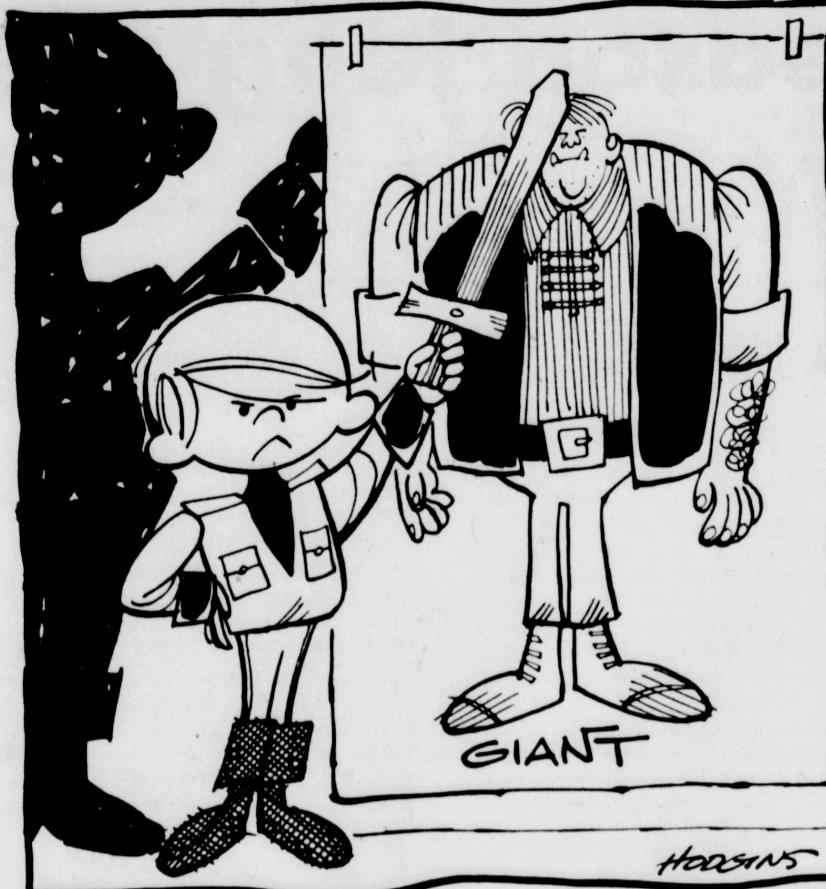

That was another worrisome thing about the boy. He told stories. Because, of course, he hadn't really seen lots of giants. Not even one. If he had why hadn't anyone else seen one? But he pretended he had and if you pretend something hard enough it's practically the same thing as true.

He made himself a sword out of two pieces of wood from an old orange crate. This was to fight giants with, he said. He was always talking about the giant fights he expected to have. It was very tiresome.

Often while eating dinner or getting ready for his bath he would tell stories about giants he had seen. His parents were sick of these stories. They no longer listened. They hoped if they didn't listen he would stop pretending.

Then one day in school the class was having a spelling lesson. The teacher wrote CAT in big letters on the blackboard. While her back was turned William Henry Christopher stood up and announced that on the way to school that morning he had seen a giant who had followed him all the way to the classroom.

"And he's probably hiding in the cloak room this very minute!"

William Henry Christopher
Preeserve believed in giants.

This was very upsetting to the class and naturally the teacher complained to the boy's parents.

That night the boy's father spoke very sternly. It was near Christmas and the father said: "You stop this talk about giants or Santa Claus isn't coming to your house this year."

William Henry Christopher said, "Father have you ever seen Santa Claus?"

"Of course not," said the father, lighting his pipe. "But if you don't behave yourself he'll not leave anything in your stocking, you'll see."

"But," said the boy, "If there's a Santa Claus why can't there be giants?"

"Because I say so!" retorted the father, crossly and he spilled his pipe all over the rug.

"But there are!" cried the boy. "I know because —"

His father got to his feet and shouted. "Go to bed! No supper for you tonight!"

William Henry Christopher went to his room and got into bed without taking off his clothes.

I'm going to run away, he thought. I'll show them. They'll be sorry.

But it was really too cold and too dark and he was too tired to run away just then. He pulled the covers over his head and went to sleep. At least he thought he was asleep but he couldn't have been because very clearly he heard a tap-tap-tap at the closet door and a high pitched voice from inside the closet cried out, "Hey, you! Open the door!"

William Henry Christopher jumped out of bed. It's a giant! he thought wildly. He snatched up his sword and threw open the closet door.

Overqualified job seekers out in cold

DETROIT (AP) — An employment agency for "overqualified" engineers and scientists is closing because the federal funds it sought for expansion are going to help hardcore unemployed and young job seekers instead.

Agency director Don Bennett said in 4½ years of operating on a shoestring budget he has helped 405 people, obtained jobs for 255, prepared 300 resumes and made 6,000 job referrals.

He said he feels the program, called REVEST (Volunteer Engineers Scientists and Technicians) filled a valuable need because professionals "often are much less competent job-seekers than the average worker."

Bennett said his agency, closing today, taught clients techniques to sell themselves to employers, since many professionals wrongly assume they will be hired for any job for which they are trained. Other problems professionals face are age barriers and companies' reluctance to hire people considered overqualified or overeducated, he said.

A lot of professionals see themselves and their job as one," said Bennett. "When the job goes, the man loses part of himself. The result can be devastating — anger, frustration, sometimes actual mental disintegration."

Bennett's program, which has had only one or two paid employees and a few volunteers, also offered job search and solicitation services, evaluation, workshops and counseling.

The program was started with federal funds, and operated with the use of local funds. Its office, phone and mail service were paid for by the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

Main sources of income during the past two years have been a $25,000 federal grant administered by the Wayne County Office of Manpower, plus $100 monthly from the Affiliate Council of the Engineering Society of Detroit for operating expenses.

Bennett said he decided to shut down after the U.S. Department of Labor turned down his request recently for $250,000 to expand.

A federal official told Bennett all such funding was earmarked for helping hard-core unemployed and young people.

Panthers stung in important early season league battle

By MARK REA
Record-Herald Sports Editor

EBER — It may be a little early in the season to start speaking of "must" games on your schedule. But, Miami Trace certainly lost one last night they would have rather had in the win column.

The Panthers stayed close to visiting Wilmington in the first half but a sloppy third quarter turned the game into a night of gloom.

Trace got the cold hand from the field after intermission and never recovered, dying a nasty 57-46 death.

This game might be considered important this early in the season because of the opponents. Miami Trace and Wilmington were picked to finish one-two in the SCOL cage battle this season.

The Panthers would have liked to knock off their chief contender instead of hoping someone else will do it.

Last night, both teams strained to work out some early season rust spots with Wilmington having much more success with the oil can.

The Hurricane murdered the Panthers under the boards. Wilmington's Gary Williams, David Nared and Bob Williams picked off countless rebounds, limiting Trace to only one shot.

Gary Williams pounded the glass for 21 rebounds in the contest while Nared pulled down 11 rebounds.

Wilmington opened a quick 8-2 lead on four different jumpers from four different players. But, like last Saturday at Lancaster, Miami Trace fought back to tie the contest at 10-10.

A three-point play by junior Art Schlichter knotted the score before Tony Berlin and Nared put the Hurricane back on top, 14-10. Senior forward Dan Gifford closed out the first period with a free throw to make the score 14-11.

The second quarter was the closest period of the game with Wilmington holding a one-point edge in the scoring. Berlin scored six points for Wilmington while Schlichter and Gifford pooled their shooting talents for seven of Trace's 11 points.

Wilmington took an unstable 26-22 lead into the locker room.

In the third period, the Hurricane started to pull away as Schlichter and Gifford landed in foul trouble. Schlichter committed his third personal in the beginning of the period and Gifford was slapped with his third near the end.

Behind Berlin, Gary Williams, and Nared, the Hurricane riddled the MTHS nets for 18 points while allowing only 12. As a result, Wilmington held a commanding 44-34 third quarter lead.

The Panthers cut the lead to six points on a jump shot by junior Bill Hanners and a pair of free throws by Schlichter early in the fourth quarter.

But, Gary and Bob Williams erased those four points with four of their own to give Wilmington another 10-point spread.

From that point, the Panthers rolled over and died as Steve Williams made the last free throw of the evening on an intentional foul to give a 57-46 win to Wilmington.

Berlin led all scorers with a 22 point performance. Gary Williams and Nared each scored in double digits for the Hurricane with 12 counters each.

Schlichter was once again the big gun for the Panthers, dropping 17 points through the iron. Gifford was the only other Trace player to dent the double figure barrier with an 11 point barrage.

The Panthers were beaten with field goals as the Hurricane rammed 26 floor shots through the hoop to just 17 for Miami Trace.

Miami Trace, now 1-1 overall and 0-1 in the league, plays another league contest this Friday against the hosting Hillsboro Indians.

Champion Ball State leads MAC stars

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Miami running back Rob Carpenter and guard Mitch Hoban, one of five players from champion Ball State, lead the coaches' 25-man Mid-American Conference football all-star squad.

Carpenter, a 214-pound senior who ran for 1,064 yards, and Hoban, a 218-pound senior, were the lone players to land first-team berths for the second successive year.

Other Ball State performers selected were wide receiver Rick Morrison, quarterback Art Yaroch, defensive back Maurice Harvey and punter Mark O'Connell.

There were two unanimous selections, Western Michigan center Mike Sitko and linebacker Greg Lockett from Ohio University.

Title challengers Ohio, Kent State and Western Michigan each placed four players on the No. 1 all-star unit while defending champion Miami and Central Michigan contributed three apiece.

Besides Lockett, Ohio's players were offensive guard Bob Weidaw, running back Arnold Welcher and defensive end Steve Groves.

From Kent State were wide receiver Kim Featsent, placekicker Paul Marchese, defensive linemen Glenn Deadmond and linebacker Jack Lazor. Western Michigan's representatives, besides Sitko, were running back Jerome Persell, offensive tackle Rocco Moore and defensive back Dave Gapinski.

Miami landed Carpenter, defensive lineman Jack Glowik and defensive end Greg Sullivan. Central Michigan's trio was tight end Wayne Schwalbach, defensive lineman John Wunderlich and defensive back Ed Rykulski.

The other first-team choices were defensive back Ron Johnson of Eastern Michigan and offensive tackle John Obrock of Bowling Green.

The coaches' 1976 Mid-American Conference all-star football team:

FIRST TEAM OFFENSE

Tight End—Wayne Schwalbach, Central Michigan, 6-foot-3, 230 pounds, Jr., Escanaba, Mich.

Tackles—Rocco Moore, Western

Michigan, 6-6½, 262, Sr., Charlotte, Mich., and John Obrock, Bowling Green, 6-4, 250, Sr., Millbury, Ohio.

Fidrych wins AL rookie of year

NEW YORK (AP) — Righthanded pitcher Mark Fidrych, the flamboyant crowd-pleaser of the Detroit Tigers, was named the American League's Rookie of the Year today.

Fidrych, who laced his mound performances with eccentric behavior such as talking to baseballs and patting down mounds, collected 22 of a possible 24 votes from a special committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

The remaining two votes went to Butch Wynegar, Minnesota's hard-hitting catcher.

Fidrych, a 22-year-old from Worcester, Mass., proved to be not only a winner with a 19-9 record and league-leading earned run average of 2.34, but was one of the biggest gate attractions in the major leagues in 1976.

The remaining two votes went to Butch Wynegar, Minnesota's hard-hitting catcher.

Fidrych started slowly but won eight games in a row one month into the season and was selected to start for the American League in the All-Star Game at Philadelphia.

In addition to leading the league in ERA, Fidrych led all pitchers with 24 complete games in 29 starts.

Besides being the first pitcher to win the AL rookie honor since Stan Bahnsen did it with the New York Yankees in 1968, Fidrych is only the second Detroit player to be named. Harvey Kuehn was the other, in 1953.

In his first season with Minnesota, Wynegar batted .260, hit 10 home runs and drove in 69 runs.

PGA tour stop

set at Kings Island

MASON, Ohio (AP) — The 1977 tour by the Professional Golfers Association will again include a stop here Sept. 22-25 where a $150,000 purse will be sought.

This will be the fourth Ohio Kings Island Open, with a $7,500 award to touring professionals during the Pro-Am to be held Sept. 21.

The tournament started in 1973 as a $125,000 event. It will be played one week later because of the Ryder Cup matches in Great Britain the previous week.

The event is sponsored by Taft Broadcasting Co. and the Cincinnati Enquirer.

Less than 1000 brave Buffalo snow to watch Sonics, Braves

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Suppose they held a basketball game and nobody came ...?

It almost happened in Buffalo Tuesday night, but 994 hardy souls braved 10-degree temperature and clambered through two feet of snow to get to Memorial Auditorium.

The gate sale, the number of tickets sold at the door, was 73. Count 'em, 73.

It was the lowest total attendance in the history of the Buffalo franchise.

But for their efforts, the Braves' faithful followers were rewarded with a 119-114 victory over the Seattle SuperSonics, as Bob McAdoo scored 17 of his 29 points in the final quarter. McAdoo sank three free throws in the final eight seconds, clinching the victory.

Elsewhere in the National Basketball Association, the New York Nets nipped the New York Knicks 104-103, the Cleveland Cavaliers defeated the Denver Nuggets 99-93, the Indiana Pacers beat the Phoenix Suns 103-97, the Golden State Warriors topped the Chicago Bulls 125-120, the San Antonio Spurs nipped the Detroit Pistons 130-

129, the Milwaukee Bucks defeated the Portland Trail Blazers 115-106 and the Los Angeles Lakers beat the Washington Bullets 109-102.

After falling behind 16-7 in the first five minutes, the Braves scored 12 points in a row and were on top of the way. Bruce Seals led a Seattle comeback, scoring 10 of his 20 points in the fourth quarter before fouling out, then rookie Bob Wilkerson converted an offensive rebound, putting the Sonics within 116-114 with 12 seconds left.

But McAdoo iced it with his three free throws.

Nets 104, Knicks 103

In the first regular-season meeting between the two New York clubs, Nate Archibald scored 15 of his game-high 34 points in the fourth quarter, sparking the Nets to victory. Backcourtmate John Williamson added 24.

Bucks 115, Blazers 106

Brian Winters scored a career-high 43 points as the Bucks snapped a nine-game losing streak and won their first game for new head Coach Don Nelson.

McCoy places fourth nationallyCounty welders fare well in competition

Four Fayette County youths fared well in arc welding competition sponsored by the Lincoln Arc Welding Foundation.

Jim McCoy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn McCoy, 1839 Ohio 734, placed fourth in national competition. McCoy, a 1976 graduate of Miami Trace High School, received $250 for his efforts. In addition, Miami Trace High School will receive a plaque and $100. McCoy's welding project was a tilting table for trimming the feet of livestock. He completed the work as a shop project in vocational agriculture.

Fred Melvin, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Melvin, 6982 West Road, placed third in the agricultural division in a 13-state region sponsored by the Lincoln Arc Welding Foundation. Melvin received $100 for his efforts. His welding project was a folding sheep fitting stand.

Randy Beekman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Beekman, 1877 Lampe Road, and Doug Welsh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Welsh, 10193 Ohio 38-N, placed fifth in the 13-state regional competition. They worked together on welding a weight transfer sled for pulling garden tractors at the Fayette County Fair. They received $50 for their efforts.

Each of the youths were required to prepare a written report along with drawings and photographs of their projects.

FAYETTEVILLE, W.Va. (AP) — Both sides of the New River Gorge were blocked to rail traffic today following two train derailments in Fayette County Tuesday.

Fifteen cars of a 91-car freight train bound for Newport News, Va., derailed late Tuesday near the community of South Fayette, according to Police Lt. B.L. Wheeling of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway. Fayette County sheriff's deputies put the figure at 18 or 19 derailed cars.

Earlier in the day, an Amtrak passenger train derailed near Sewell northwest of South Fayette on the other side of the river. Crews had not yet removed the wreckage from that derailment when the second mishap blocked the other tracks.

"Right now both tracks are tied up," Wheeler said. "That's a section where the railroad splits and one track goes up one side of the river and the other up the other side."

Railroad officials have not yet determined the cause of either derailment.

The freight train was carrying coal and grain for shipment overseas, authorities said. The derailed cars were full of grain, according to deputies.

Following the Amtrak wreck, Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., called for a federal investigation of recent derailments of the Chicago Washington line through West Virginia.

In a statement from Washington, Byrd said he wants officials of Amtrak and the National Transportation Safety Board "to determine whether repairs or safety procedural changes should have been implemented earlier."

"I am also urging Amtrak officials to consider changing the equipment used on the James Whitcomb Riley to the newer fleet of Amfleet equipment, if these more modern and lighter cars will enhance safety aspects on this route," he said.

The Riley has derailed six times in the past year, four of those in West Virginia.

In Tuesday's Amtrak derailment, all six cars carrying 84 passengers left the tracks. Only one passenger was injured, but the others were stranded in sub-freezing weather for six hours while coaches arrived to continue the run to Chicago.

Mary Tyler Moore signs contract

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mary Tyler Moore, star of her own CBS television series, has signed an exclusive long-term contract with CBS-TV, says Robert Wussler, head of the network.

He said Tuesday that under the agreement, Miss Moore will star in at least two specials next season on CBS and star in a new series on CBS during the 1978-79 season.

Miss Moore's current series now is in its seventh and final season.

Trends still unchanged

Economic data shows balance

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government said today its index foreshadowing economic trends remained unchanged in October after two months of steep decline. It indicated that the nation's economic slowdown might not worsen.

At the same time, the Commerce Department revised its index of leading economic indicators for the previous two months to show that it had declined even further than first reported.

The composite index was down eight-tenths of a per cent in August and nine-tenths of a per cent in September after the revisions, compared with the seven-tenths of a per cent decline reported earlier for both months.

The performance of the index in October was not entirely conclusive since economists say it takes at least three months to establish a trend.

Until the final component for the index was tabulated Tuesday, analysts feared the October index could be down for the third month in row. Many economists believe such a three-month trend would signal a new downturn in the economy.

President-elect Jimmy Carter said last month he will recommend a tax reduction or other steps to stimulate the economy if the slowdown continued much longer.

The flat performance for October likely will make economists want to wait another month before attempting to use the index to interpret the future course of the nation's economy.

One Commerce Department analyst said the previous declines probably reflected the economic slowdown that has already occurred rather than pointing to a new downturn.

Meanwhile, there were these economic developments:

—The United States recorded a trade deficit in October of $695.9 million, bringing the U.S. deficit for the first 10 months to $4.1 billion. October was the ninth month with a trade deficit this year.

—The Labor Department said the layoff rate of the nation's factories increased in October for the third consecutive month. Manufacturers laid off 1.7 workers per 100 employees in October, compared with 1.5 per 100 in September and 1.3 in August.

Factories also added fewer workers in October, with the rate of new hiring declining to 2.4 per 100 from 2.5 per 100 in September.

—The government's chief inflation

monitor said the Ford administration is "mystified" by the increase in steel prices and believes steel producers might have to back down because they could have trouble selling at the new prices.

William E. Lilley III, acting director of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, said he hopes steel producers aren't trying to increase prices out of concern that the new Carter administration will try to impose some kind of price restraints.

—Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said the economy is likely to need a hefty tax cut next year, possibly tied to a tax rebate, but that he doubts Congress would push for such a stimulus without Carter's backing.

—Farm prices dropped 3 per cent from Oct. 15 to Nov. 15, the Agriculture Department said.

Lower prices for grain, cattle and hogs, along with a sharp decline for grapefruit, contributed most to the drop. Higher prices for eggs and soybeans softened the decline.

TO AVOID possible damage to automobiles, residents on Yeoman and Willard streets from Elm Street to Ogle Street and Columbus Avenue are asked not to park along the curb after 11 a.m. Saturday.

Both streets will be closed to traffic after 12 noon Saturday to allow the annual Christmas parade to form. If no automobiles are parked on the two streets, it will make preparation for the parade easier and also eliminate any possible damage to residents' autos.

Despite his suspension, Andrews continued on the job as registrar, when Cook's order was overruled by Rhodes by telephone from Florida where the governor was spending a Thanksgiving holiday.

On Sunday, Cook said he felt Rhodes had "been sheltered from the truth" concerning Andrews. Asked to elaborate on that remark, he said, "I thought there were some facts that were put in my (suspension) order that the governor wasn't aware of."

The feud between Cook and Andrews, who by state law serves under Cook, broke into the open last week when it was learned that the safety director had ordered Andrews suspended for 20 working days.

Cook said he "absolutely" stood by his charges against the registrar and had documented them for Moyer and Martin.

Cook has accused Andrews of arbitrarily shutting off access to a law enforcement data gathering system

$60,000, and the board is seeking needy recipients.

"We would like to use the money; that's what it is there for," said Robert L. Kunz, administrator at Fayette County Memorial Hospital.

The funds are to be used for the payment of medical bills of infantile paraplegics victims and other crippled children whose parents are unable to meet the expenses.

"It (the fund) has been used over the years," Kunz said, "but not much." He added that the money has been untouched for the past two years.

The reason the money is growing in interest-bearing accounts is that most people don't know the fund exists. Also, federal and state programs that help defray medical expenses for crippled children are readily available.

Needy persons have learned about the money through their physicians in past years.

Matter not resolved

Rhodes aides study Cook-Andrews feud

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Aides to Gov. James A. Rhodes have been given first-hand, but separate accounts by two state officials involved in an embarrassing feud within the Republican Administration.

Highway Safety Director Donald D. Cook and the man he tried to suspend, Motor Vehicles Registrar Curtis Andrews, were tight-lipped after the sessions Tuesday, but both indicated the matter had not been resolved. Each met privately with the governor's two executive assistants, Thomas J. Moyer, and Roy Martin.

"They are still looking into it," Cook said after his one-hour meeting with the aides. "There has been nothing decided. They are going to investigate it further."

Rhodes was in another office and apparently decided to stay out of the controversy until Moyer, his chief advisor, and Martin, his appointments chief, heard both sides. They are expected to make a report to Rhodes, who, of course, must make the final decision.

The feud between Cook and Andrews, who by state law serves under Cook, broke into the open last week when it was learned that the safety director had ordered Andrews suspended for 20 working days.

Cook said he "absolutely" stood by his charges against the registrar and had documented them for Moyer and Martin.

Cook has accused Andrews of arbitrarily shutting off access to a law enforcement data gathering system daily after 5 p.m. and on weekends without his approval. He claims the registrar sought to impede an Ohio Highway Patrol investigation into fund shortages among deputy registrars, and that he failed to take actions against thousands of Ohio drivers who are operating motor vehicles illegally after having had their licenses suspended.

Cook said he also sought unsuccessfully to obtain information from Andrews about a newspaper interview in which the registrar was quoted as saying certain bureau records had been destroyed.

"I answered all of the charges that were made in the newspaper against me," Andrews said referring to published reports of the dispute.

He would not detail his position but said it would be "evaluated" by Moyer and Martin and forwarded to the governor.

"I feel I had supportable facts to answer the questions that were put to me," the registrar said. "Now, I'm going back to work."

Almost dormant fund designed to help crippled children

Hospital board can make Christmas merrier for handicapped

By PHIL LEWIS

Record-Herald City Editor

The most famous Christmas story written in the past two centuries dealt with a crippled boy, Tiny Tim, who had a merry Dec. 25 with the help of a Mr. Scrooge.

Charles Dickens' novel "A Christmas Carol," is mentioned not only because the yuletide season is approaching, but because one or more crippled children can have a merrier Dec. 25 with the help of the Fayette County Memorial Hospital board of trustees.

The hospital board has the means to aid crippled children in Fayette County. Unlike Scrooge in the story, the board doesn't need supernatural visitors to pry open the purse strings. It just needs somebody to apply for the funds left by the late Mrs. Sarah C. DeWitt.

Mrs. DeWitt, a former Fayette County resident who died in 1957, left the board $30,000 for aiding crippled children. That $30,000 has grown to $60,000, and the board is seeking needy recipients.

"We would like to use the money; that's what it is there for," said Robert L. Kunz, administrator at Fayette County Memorial Hospital.

The funds are to be used for the payment of medical bills of infantile paraplegics victims and other crippled children whose parents are unable to meet the expenses.

"It (the fund) has been used over the years," Kunz said, "but not much." He added that the money has been untouched for the past two years.

The reason the money is growing in interest-bearing accounts is that most people don't know the fund exists. Also, federal and state programs that help defray medical expenses for crippled children are readily available.

Needy persons have learned about the money through their physicians in past years.

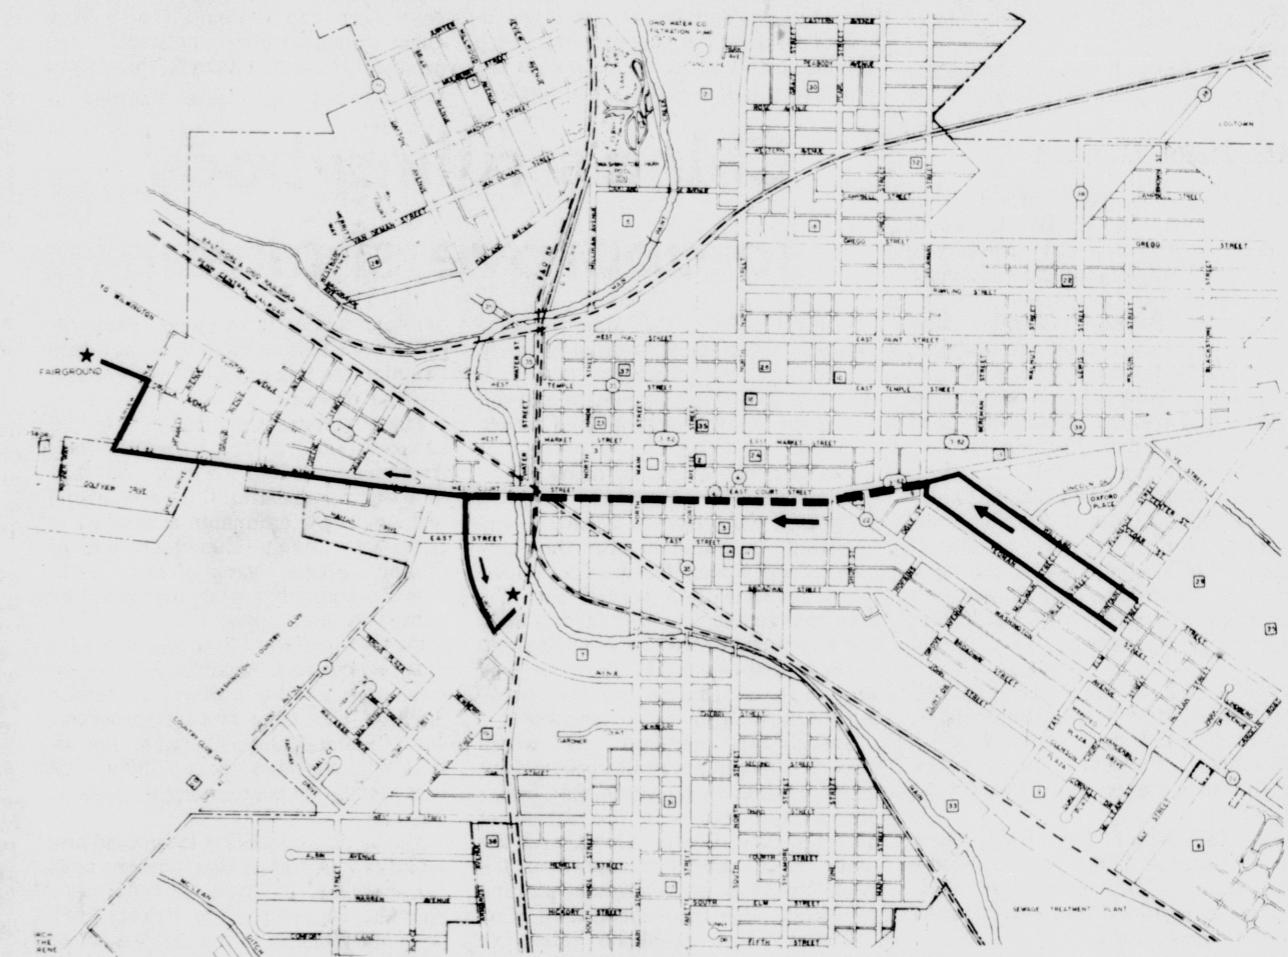

Any resident of Fayette County who has a crippled child is eligible for the aid. Being a county resident is the only major restriction. "The board has a broad interpretation on what is a crippled child," Kunz said.

Kunz added that the money can be used for medical care for patients in the county hospital or in a hospital outside the county. Therapeutic items such as special mattresses can be purchased through the DeWitt fund.

Kunz said a child is defined as any youth from one-week-old to 18-years-old.

The hospital board will gladly consider any requests for aid according to Kunz. All that is required is that the request be put in writing and submitted to Kunz at the hospital.

The fact that Mrs. DeWitt's son, Dwight, who died in 1936, was crippled is believed to have motivated her to establish the crippled children's fund.

PARADE ROUTE — Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce executive vice-president George Malek has announced the route for Saturday's Christmas parade. Two columns will be formed to begin the 2 p.m. parade, one on Yeoman Street and the other on Willard Street. The two columns will converge into one at the intersection of Delaware Street and Columbus Avenue and proceed through the downtown business district. The single column will break into at Court Street and Circle Avenue. The floats will continue on Court Street to the Fayette County Fairgrounds via Leesburg Avenue while marching groups will follow Circle Avenue to Gardner Park.

Units to form on Willard, Yeoman streets

Christmas parade route set

The 60 units participating in the Fayette County Christmas parade will begin forming on Willard and Yeoman streets at 12 noon Saturday.

Scheduled to participate in the parade are three bands, 12 marching units, 14 homemade floats, 13 commercial floats, 18 assorted vehicles, a group of horseback riders and Santa Claus himself.

The horses and all motorized vehicles are to line up on Willard Street after entering from Elm Street. These units have been assigned numbers in the lineup chart on page 5 of today's edition.

Marching groups (designated by letters on the chart) are to form on Yeoman Street. No motor vehicles will be allowed on Yeoman Street after 12 noon. Persons dropping off marchers in the parade are asked to take Elm Street to Washington Avenue and then drop young children off along Washington Avenue between Worley and McElwain streets. The children will then walk one block from Washington Avenue to Yeoman Street.

Groups of older children are asked to exit their cars at the Washington Senior High School parking lot and walk to their positions on Yeoman Street.

Although this may create some inconvenience, Washington C.H. Chamber of Commerce executive vice-president George Malek feels this will insure the greatest safety for youngsters who will be crowding Yeoman Street between 12 noon and 2 p.m. He asks that participants in the parade cooperate.

Members of the Fayette County

Night Owls Citizen Band Radio Club will assist children crossing Elm Street and organize the positioning of parade units. Each float, truck, marching unit will have a space allocated to it along the formation route. Numbered units will line up on Willard Street. The smaller numbers will be near Columbus Avenue, larger numbers near Elm Street.

Marching units will begin with the letter "A" at Ogle Street and work their way back toward Elm Street. The parade will step off promptly at 2 p.m.

Marching units will turn right onto Ogle Street. Floats and other motor units will turn left onto Columbus Avenue. At the intersection of Ogle Street and Columbus Avenue, the floats

FBI guards Korean 'defector'

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI agents reportedly are guarding a South Korean diplomat who has defied orders to return home and has begun cooperating with the Justice Department's probe of alleged South Korean influence-buying among U.S. congressmen.

Sources identified him Tuesday night as Kim Sang Keun, who is officially listed as a counselor at the South Korean Embassy but who reportedly was the top Korean Central Intelligence Agency officer here.

FBI agents reportedly were guarding Kim, his wife and family at an undisclosed location near here. Agents were also stationed at Kim's apartment in suburban McLean, Va.

Kim, 43, who had been named in recent news reports about the Korean influence-buying probe as a KCIA officer, reportedly feared the Seoul government would make him a scapegoat in the U.S. investigation of his lobbying activities.

The South Korean government reportedly has ordered home several officials to prevent them from cooperating with U.S. investigators.

The alleged influence-buying scheme reportedly was directed from the highest echelons of the Seoul government with the knowledge of the South Korean president.

Although Kim and other South Korean officials at the embassy and other consular offices in the United States have diplomatic immunity, they could cooperate voluntarily with the prosecutors.

The South Korean Embassy issued this statement Tuesday night:

"Counselor Kim has never asked for political asylum and he made this clear not only to us but also to the U.S. authorities."

But a source said that Kim, while not technically a defector since he is from a nation friendly to the United States, has been allowed to change his visa status in return for his cooperation with the Justice Department probe.

Kim was said to be well-informed about the activities of Tongsun Park, a South Korean businessman with wide interests here, and Pak Bo Hi, president of the Washington-based Korean

Mrs. Joseph Crawford

MOUNT STERLING — Mrs. Eleanor M. Crawford, 78, of Rt. 1, Mount Sterling, died at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday in Fayette County Memorial Hospital, Washington C.H.

Born in Fayette County, Mrs. Crawford is survived by her husband, Joseph; three brothers, Ernest Sollars, of Mount Sterling, Homer Sollars, of London, and Weldon Sollars, of Orient, and a sister, Mrs. Charles (Grace) Brown, of Washington C.H.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Friday in the Porter Funeral Home, Mount Sterling, with the Rev. Harold Messmer officiating. Burial will be in Pleasant Cemetery, Mount Sterling. Friends may call at the funeral home after 2 p.m. Thursday.

MRS. PAUL HUFF — Services for Mrs. Ruth E. Huff, 52, of Williamsport, were held at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home, New Holland, with the Rev. Leroy Newsome officiating.

Mrs. Huff, wife of Paul Huff, was a former employee of the Jackson Glove Manufacturing Co. in Washington C.H. before moving to Williamsport 18 years ago. She died Saturday.

Bev Whitten sang two hymns accompanied at the piano by Jean Valone. Pallbearers for the burial in Springlawn Cemetery, Williamsport, were Ken and Lonnie Rigsby, Virgil Leach, Bill Kirby, Bus Whitten and Paul Spangler.

Parade route

and marching units will be mixed into a single column by Malek and members of the citizens band radio club. The units will fall into the lineup as shown in the table.

The entire parade will move west on Court Street through the downtown business district. The parade will divide at Circle Avenue. Marching units will turn left onto Circle Avenue and continue marching into Gardner Park where parents or friends may wait in cars. These cars are to be parked on High Street or in Gardner Park, not along Circle Avenue.

Floots, with their riders sitting firmly on top, will proceed down Leesburg Avenue (U.S. 62 S) and continue past Fairview Drive to the rear parking area at the Fayette County Fairgrounds. Night Owl members will help direct the floats to this rear parking area where riders automobiles may be waiting.

After the parade, all participants are invited to visit Santa Claus on the steps of the Fayette County Courthouse. After riding in the parade he will be returned to the Courthouse to take Christmas gift requests and distribute candy to the youngsters.

Participants are asked to clip this article as well as the lineup chart on page 5 and bring it with them Saturday.

Common Cause raps energy panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Common Cause, the public interest lobbying organization, charged today that the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy was a "huckster for the nuclear power industry" and should be abolished.

In issuing a 38-page report, Common Cause President David Cohen said the committee "provides a platform to nuclear power supporters while it rarely hears the critics and never listens to them."

"It ignores safety issues and cost overruns while it protects federal investments in its members' states and districts. It is the classic special interest committee to the ninth power."

Common Cause said the powers now held by the 18-member panel, headed by retiring Sen. John O. Pastore, D.R.I., should be given to House and Senate committees that are responsible for U.S. energy policies.

Congressional leaders can start eliminating the panel by refusing to replace retiring members or those who lost reelection, the report said. Besides Pastore, four members will not return in January.

There has been speculation that a move will be made to abolish the panel, partly because of concern about its constitutionality. It is unique as the only joint committee with power to draft legislation.

An aide to Pastore said he had not seen the Common Cause report and that the senator would have no immediate comment on its allegations.

Common Cause said the joint panel, established in 1947 to help oversee development of nuclear weapons, has a lock on congressional consideration of nuclear power issues.

The committee "has the power to completely shut off the possibility of alternative legislation or of testimony," Common Cause said. The report said the panel "totally directs the progress of all legislation concerning nuclear power in both houses."

In its report, entitled "Stacking the Deck," Common Cause said that in the past 23 years the panel has heard only 98 public interest group witnesses, an average of fewer than five per year, compared to 2,531 government witnesses and 1,109 industry representatives.

Common Cause said committee members actively promoted nuclear development because they represented states where there was a heavy investment by the nuclear industry. Twelve of the 18 members represent six states that received more than half of the $5.5 billion the U.S. Energy and Research Administration approved for nuclear plants in the 1976 and 1977 fiscal years, Common Cause said.

Opinion And Comment

School bus brake hazard

No school district should need a reminder that particular care must be taken to keep old buses up to snuff. Some school systems, however, are less scrupulous about this than they might be. This lends point to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration's current warning. The message is: If the shoe fits, wear it.

The warning is about brakes - brakes that may fail because hydraulic tubing is weakened by rust and corrosion. A rupture in this tubing, a spokesman for the agency observed, may bring "a catastrophic loss of braking capability in vehicles equipped with single hydraulic brake systems."

Splashup from the road is the villain. Though the problem is worst in areas where salt or other chemicals are used on roads to control ice and snow, rust is a factor even where this is not done. Pre-1969 buses are the most vulnerable.

because their protective brake line coating is not as thick as that on later models. But all buses in use for several years need attention.

The Traffic Safety Administration recommends brake tubing inspection at least once a year. Exposed tubing should be washed periodically, it says; corroded tubing should be replaced. The good sense in these precautions is self-evident. They should be made a part of routine school bus maintenance.

THESE DAYS By John Chamberlain

GOP split will not easily be healed

William Rusher, the publisher of National Review who has labored so indefatigably to establish the case for a new majority party, thinks the label "RepubliCAN" has no more sales value. The American Conservative Union doesn't quite agree with him: Its policy committee advocates changing the name of the G.O.P. to "Conservative-Republican" or "Independent-Republican."

But it is not the name that will count, it is the reality of the party's composition.

The conservatives want Ronald Reagan to serve as the spearhead personality for a complete changeover both in the precincts and at the national committee level. I devoutly hope that Reagan will spend the next couple of years doing his effective missionary work in the conservative cause. But the "cause" conservatives should be warned: They aren't going to have any easy task in wrenching the control of the G.O.P. away from the pragmatic conservatives. I hated to read the election analysis put out by the pragmatists in the November issue of the Riron Forum. It foreshadows a tremendous Republican argument in the next two years. Reagan, I believe, could have won the November election by taking some of the Southern states away from Carter. But a Reagan victory would have been a triumph of personality, not a triumph of principle.

The truth is that lesser Republicans of unassailable conservative ideological credentials fared very badly in the more populous areas of the country. Where the conservatives won - in New Mexico with Schmitt, with Hatch in Utah, with Wallop in Wyoming - it was pretty much in places that have little electoral college strength. True enough, Hayakawa beat John Tunney in California, but this was a special personality triumph that had little to do with party labels.

The conservatives lost Jim Buckley in New York and Brock in Tennessee. Taft of Ohio was another casualty. On the other hand, Republicans who deliberately avoided an ideological tag won handily. Weicker in Connecticut, Chafee in Rhode Island and Lugar in Indiana have some conservative coloration, but they are hardly of the Reaganean persuasion.

There is too much truth for comfort in the Riron Republicans' contention that Ford and his ticket lost because of the lack of an urban strategy, by which they mean lack of a Middle Western and a Northeastern strategy. Conservative Republican challengers for House seats were generally unsuccessful in New Jersey even though Ford carried the state. A most ardent Connecticut Democratic liberal, Toby Moffett, won his sophomore election to the House even though the case that he had been entirely too sophomore as a freshman was incontestable. And why the egregious Father Drinan could not have been knocked off in Massachusetts must be a mystery. The Republicans let him get away with everything short of murder.

The Rironites think the future is bright for Progressive Republicans. I don't think it is bright for Republicans of any shading unless Jimmy Carter mangles his opportunities in the White House. But this is not the point when it comes to predicting the realities of party reorganization. Simply because Ford did better than Carter in the definitely Reaganean states west of the tree line that extends south from western Minnesota to Oklahoma, the reorganization nod ought to go to the Reaganean Republicans who almost gave Jerry a second-term lease on the White House. It was not the Rockefellers or the Elliot Richards who wrote the Republican platform and enabled Ford to make it close.

But in spite of the logical claims of Reaganeans to Republican control, the Riron contention that the "base progressive talent" represented in the Senate by "moderates" such as John Heinz of Pennsylvania, John Chafee of Rhode Island, John Danforth of Missouri, Charles Mathias of Maryland, Charles Percy of Illinois, Edward Brooke of Massachusetts, Lowell Weicker of Connecticut and Mark Hatfield and Robert Packwood of Oregon is going to make it difficult for the conservatives to rebaptize the G.O.P. as the Conservative-Republican party.

We could be in for a republican bloodletting, and if it comes, it will take place in an organism that is already all too debilitated. If the Republicans stage a comeback at the polls in 1978, it will be because of Democratic failure, not because of any particular astuteness in either conservative or liberal Republican circles.

Males still earning more than women

WASHINGTON (AP) — The average man working full-time in 1974 earned about $5,000 more than the average woman, the Labor Department says.

Furthermore, the gap between male and female incomes has increased drastically in the past two decades, the department reported Sunday.

In 1955, men were earning about 56.4 per cent more than women. By 1974, the gap had widened to 74.8 per cent.

In 1974, the median earnings of women were $6,772, compared with $11,835 for men — a difference of $5,063, or nearly $100 a week.

The report, based on Census Bureau data, blamed two primary factors for the widening gap: a continued concentration of women in low-skilled, low-paying jobs, and a sharp rise in the number of women entering the work force at beginners' level jobs.

Labor Department analysts said that even considering those factors and the shorter average lifetime work experience of women, "much of the male-female differential remains unexplained" and discrimination may be involved.

The report said that in constant dollars, taking inflation into account, the gap between the earnings of men and women rose from $1,911 in 1955 to $3,433 in 1974.

Although women comprised 31.8 per cent of the full-time, year-round work force, they make up only 5.3 per cent of workers earning $15,000 or more in 1974.

More than 80 per cent of the regularly employed women earned less than $10,000, while only 38 per cent of men working regularly make under $10,000, the report said.

Women accounted for 63 per cent of workers earning between $3,000 and $4,999 in 1974, and for 58 per cent of those earning $5,000 to $6,999.

The report also found that a once wide gap between the earnings of white and black women is narrowing. Black women working full-time in 1974 averaged 94 per cent as much pay as white women; in 1960, black women averaged only 70 per cent as much.

The average black man working full-time earned $9,082 in 1974, or 73.4 per cent of the average white man's full-time earnings of $12,343.

The report said women of all races are "clearly overrepresented among those workers whose earnings are low."

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: "IMMORTALITY," SAID A FAMOUS CHINESE STATESMAN, "IS WHEN A MAN DIES BUT HIS WORDS LIVE." — CARL CROW

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Their affair is not your affair

DEAR ABBY: One of the girls I work with has fallen head over heels for a guy she couldn't know very well. Either that, or she's led a very sheltered life.

I've known this guy for years. He's a closet queen who uses girls as a cover-up.

I hate to see this girl get hurt because she is really crazy about him. If he should go so far as to marry her, it can't last very long because he's the type who never stays with one lover very long, but needs a nice straight woman to be seen in public with.

Should I tell her what she's got herself mixed up with? Or let her keep going with him until he breaks her heart?

NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: The guy could be bisexual, and it's also possible that he has decided to go the straight route. Since it's not possible for you to know what's in his head, I suggest you mind your own business. P.S. Maybe she knows all about him, but loves him anyway.

DEAR ABBY: We are a group of professional middleclass couples who often get together in each other's homes for good conversation. Each hostess serves something.

One of the couples serves on paper plates. Her excuse us that she works and must conserve her energy, and although most of us work, we feel that this is her right. However, whether it's inside or a barbecue, she uses plastic forks, knives and spoons, which she washes and saves for the next party!

We have hinted that as long as she washes the plastic tableware for her next party she might as well use silverware, but she doesn't seem to understand.

Abby, if you've ever tried to eat borscht with a plastic spoon, or macaroni salad with a plastic fork, you'll know what we mean.

After her last party, our husbands told us not to accept another invitation to this couple's home. Our hints have done no good, and we like her too much to drop her. Any suggestions?

PLEASE, NO PLASTIC

DEAR PLEASE: Quit hinting. Come right out and ask her to please save the plastic for picnics and to use silverware. And if that doesn't help, but you like her too much to drop her, bring your own silverware.

DEAR ABBY: I am 16 and unmarried. Just recently I gave up my baby for adoption. I loved that baby more than anything in the world, and that is why I didn't keep him.

I loved him enough to know that he would have a better home and a better chance in life with a mother and father, someone who is older and better able to care for him than I am.

I still have another year of high school. I would not really have been around long enough to give my son the love and care he deserves.

So when people ask, "How could you give your baby away," my answer is, "Because I loved him."

Christmas parade lineup

Those units identified by numbers on the chart below will form at 12 noon on Willard Street and end the parade on the Fayette County Fairgrounds parking lot. Lettered units are marchers who will form on Yeoman Street and finish in Gardner Park. Those 14 floats which appear in bold type are eligible for cash awards. They should be assembled on the Washington Senior High School parking lot no later than 11 a.m. for judging.

Transport center liability denied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Roger F. Dreyer, chairman of the Ohio Transportation Research Center's board of directors, has defended it from a state auditor's report which as much as labeled the facility a white elephant.

Dreyer was asked Tuesday about the report showing the center had an operating loss over a five-year period of more than $20 million, and suggesting the legislature cut off future funding until a study is made.

The chairman said Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson's report included in the $20 million "many things we consider an investment, not an operating loss." He acknowledged the center near Marysville is not yet operating in the black, but said it had been victim of an "economic downturn" starting in 1973 and should be making a profit in the next two years.

Dreyer also said Ferguson "doesn't like the idea" that the center—a quasi-public agency similar to the Ohio Turnpike Commission—has its own audit done annually by an outside firm and submits the results to the governor and legislature in annual reports. "He just does not like outside audits," he said of Ferguson.

The board chairman pointed to a recently enacted state law that gives the board authority to operate under its own rules and regulations, instead of those spelled out for other line agencies of the state. Ferguson's report had been critical on that point.

Dreyer said if the board was forced to operate under the state's rules, the center would have to employ between 140 and 150 persons "rather than the 38 or 39 we have now." Civil Service and the "red tape" it entails would create and maintain a bureaucracy, he suggested.

The chairman took issue with consultant fees Ferguson's report included in the $20 million loss figure, especially $1.1 million that went to E.S. Preston & Associates. Dreyer said the Preston firm acted as an engineering consulting on layout and construction of the huge vehicle research and test center. He added "we haven't had a contract with Preston for a year and a half."

"With all that put into the picture, I don't think we have done badly," he said.

'Hustler' trial set for Monday

CINCINNATI (AP) — "Hustler Magazine" publisher Larry Flynt, his magazine and three company officers today faced trial on charges of violating Ohio obscenity law after losing appeals in both the U.S. District Court and the 1st Ohio District Court of Appeals.

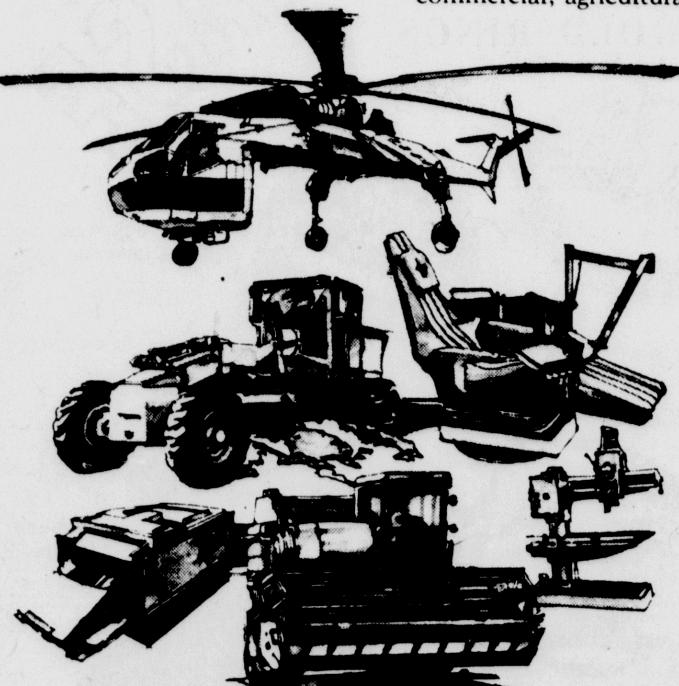

U.S. District Court Judge Carl Rubin dismissed two appeals from the Columbus, Ohio, publisher Tuesday. Rubin said Flynt's attorneys had failed to prove the state law against obscenity was unconstitutional and had failed to prove that Hamilton County Prosecutor Simon Leis Jr. was prosecuting out of harassment.

Flynt's attorneys alleged that Leis had sought indictments against Flynt because Flynt had been uncooperative in an investigation of police corruption in Cincinnati. Flynt's lawyers contended "Hustler" was charged while other magazine publishers who circulated magazines of the same type in Cincinnati were not.

The state appellate court refused to allow Flynt's attorneys a further delay and ruled that Hamilton County Common Pleas Court Judge William Morrissey begin the trial Wednesday.

Leasing equipment through us can increase your profits.

professional equipment, we can custom tailor the lease to your needs. We'll make the arrangements locally with the support of specialists of BancOhio Leasing Company, like us, an affiliate of the $3.3 billion BancOhio Corporation.

Some advantages of leasing through us:

- 100% financing — keeps capital working at a return greater than the lease cost.
- Improves cash flow — rentals are treated as an expense. The after-tax lease cost may be substantially less than that of equipment ownership. We can provide a comparative analysis for your attorney and accountant to review.
- Investment tax credit — when leasing new equipment we pass this credit on to you, thereby increasing retained earnings.
- Cost-plus contracts — easier to control because lease expenses can be measured against equipment productivity.
- Sale leaseback — the bank buys equipment you currently own then leases it back to you converting fixed assets to working capital.
- Lease lines of credit — can be established to add more equipment as needed.
- Customized payments — terms are adjusted to best fit your seasonal cash flow needs.

Equipment leasing is just one of the creative ways our affiliation with BancOhio Corporation helps us provide new perspectives for your financial planning.

What's new at the library?

Book nook

By ERIC HALVERSON
Library Director

The biggest drain on a library book budget is the "unauthorized borrowing" (or more plainly "theft") of books. The second heaviest burden on the book buying power of a library is the non-return of charged out material. And the huge dollar loss represents only part of the real cost of this problem.

The cost of a missing book must also be measured in other ways.

What is the value of a book that is out of print and can't be replaced? How do you value the disappointment of a shut-in who has been waiting for a book only to be told it is "lost". What is the value to a student who needs it to prepare for an upcoming exam, or job interview? What value does a community put on the opportunities lost because the information was stolen?

Perhaps the thought "What's one book?" encourages people to keep books beyond the due date or "borrow" them without proper check out. Perhaps the same thought keeps library users from demanding action when they can't find the book they need. But sadly it's not one book, or even hundreds or thousands of books. It's millions of books across the nation each year and it's costing Americans in increased taxes and lost opportunity.

The books most commonly removed from libraries or kept beyond the due date are reference books which are expensive and definitely useful and best sellers. In some libraries, more than 20 per cent of all new fiction vanishes in less than one year.

Washington C.H. does not suffer from the same book loss as a New York City; however, at any given time a significant number of books are overdue, unaccounted for or lost and presumed stolen. It costs the Carnegie Public Library almost $17 to put a book on the shelves. To cut the final loss, this first Christmas week there is a major effort going on to recover lost or overdue books. The library is not collecting fines on any material returned from November 29 to December 4. The library is open from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through

Miami Trace 'Seniors of the Week'

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roark are the parents of Mark Roark who is our first senior of the week. They reside at 794 Knollwood Circle in Lakewood Hills.

Mark's courses this semester are Advanced Math, Physiology, Speech, International Studies, Government and CONFERENCE SPEAKER — Bill Matson shakes hands with his former principal Curtis Fleisher after addressing high school students at the annual district Distributive Education conference at the Mahan Building last month. Matson, a 1972 graduate of Miami Trace High School, is now a successful insurance agent.

Trace participates in district DE conference

By KIM CONLEY

The annual Distributive Education District 21 Fall Conference was held at the Mahan building in Washington C.H. Nov. 15. Twelve schools attended the conference with approximately 300 students present.

The conference consisted of a tour of Pennington Bakery, a lecture, and a luncheon. Maurice Pfeifer, the principal at Washington Senior High School, talked to one group of DE students, while Bill Matson, a representative of Western-Southern Life Insurance, talked to a group consisting of students from Miami Trace, Washington C.H. Laurel Oaks, Hillsboro, and Greenfield.

Mr. Matson is a resident of Washington C.H. and a 1972 graduate of Miami Trace. He is a member of the "Million Dollar Club" at Western-Southern, meaning he has sold over $1 million worth of life insurance. Mr. Matson works out of Washington C.H. and sells mainly in this area under the supervision of Joe Murphy.

His speech dealt with how Distributive Education can be a great help to its members. Being a president of DE, when he was in high school, Mr. Matson told about the first hand experience he had and how DE can give its members an advantage over college prep students by giving them work experience, ideas, and a proper perspective about their future. Mr. Matson will also be talking to other DE clubs in future engagements.

In commenting about DE Conference, Miami Trace Principal, Curtis Fleisher, had this to say: "I enjoyed Bill's talk. It is good to see out students go out of high school and be successful in their chosen field. The DE program is a good opportunity for students to learn about a career in selling and there are still positions available for 'good' sales people."

In-the-Know team scrimmages WSHS

Experience won out when the Miami Trace High School In-the-Know team scrimmaged the Washington Senior High School In-the-Know team and won.

A wide variety of questions including art, music, science, sports, literature, and trivia were answered by both teams.

Scrimmages like this with schools and faculty plus months of practices and individual study prepare team members for the real thing. Only four students are chosen which makes In-the-Know very competitive and quite challenging.

The Miami Tracer

Thanksgiving assembly held

By STANLEY BURNETT

A Thanksgiving Assembly was held Nov. 24 at Miami Trace High School. It started off with the combined voices of the Symphonic Choir and Folksingers singing "Both Sides Now."

Mr. Richard Glass, vocal director, welcomed everyone and made comments throughout the assembly concerning Thanksgiving. The joint singing groups then sang "Come Ye Thankful People Come" and "Litanies of Thanksgiving" which was highlighted with trumpet accompaniment by Bruce Fennig, Jennifer Burnett, and Alan Thompson.

Several Points of Thanksgiving were made throughout the song by various members of the choir. After this, Cindy Grover spoke about old traditions of Thanksgiving, a couple of these being the Indian tradition of sacrificing a young girl by beheading her and how the Presidents made Thanksgiving a national holiday.

The program was then concluded with the choir singing "Prayer of Thanksgiving" and Mr. Glass wishing everyone a happy Thanksgiving.

School chapter of Future Farmers of America (FFA) and the "biggest business in the world" is agriculture.

The local FFA program was the topic discussed at the regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Washington C.H. Rotary Club Tuesday in the Country Club.

Charles Andrews, a vocational-agriculture instructor and a FFA chapter advisor, said the local program is aimed at "building pride in the young people and in agriculture."

Andrews said the program does not train young people to be farmers, but to acquaint them with various aspects of the agri-business field.

The local FFA chapter, Andrews said, has 136 students, 32 of which are girls. Of the more than 360 FFA chapters in Ohio, the Miami Trace chapter ranks fourth.

The chapter competes in number of state contests including livestock judging, tractor troubleshooting, parliamentary procedure and public speaking.

Andrews said the enrollment in the program is limited since more students apply than can be handled with the number of instructors.

In addition to providing students with a basic background of the agri-business field, Andrews said the program also offers specialized curriculum. The program offers 18 to 20 weeks of specialized instruction in such areas as animal science, welding and mechanics.

A 10-minute color slide presentation on the importance of farming was given by Andrews. The slide presentation pointed out there are 4.5 million workers involved in U.S. agriculture, the average size of a U.S. farm is now 395 acres and that the average farmer feeds 50 other people besides himself. It also explained that today's farmer must be a scientist, an agronomist, a nutritionist, a chemist, an engineer, a salesman, an ecologist and above all a manager.

Accompanying Andrews were FFA chapter vice president Beth Jinks, treasurer Doug Miller and assistant treasurer Fred Melvin.

Miller reported on the annual fruit sale now being planned by the local chapter. The sale is the major fund-raising project of the year and local chapter members expect to sell $30,000 worth of fruit this year.

Miss Jinks spoke on the various production projects available to local chapter members such as livestock, shop and work experience programs.

The meeting was conducted by club president Dr. George Pommert and John Rhood arranged the program.

Visiting Rotarians were Charles Pitts of London and Darrell French of Wilmington. Alan Mossbarger was a guest with Don Kirk and student guests were Jerry Curnutt of Miami Trace High School and Tom Dean of Washington Senior High School.

Slightly moderating temperatures moved into Ohio this morning, but more cold air was expected tonight.

Highs today were forecast to reach the 20s north to the 30s south. Occasional light snow was forecast for the northern part of the state as a low pressure system to the west of the state moves to the lower lakes. Little accumulation of snow, if any, was expected today.

Colder air was to move in tonight as the low passes eastward and some snow may begin to accumulate north. Lows tonight will be dropping into the teens, rising only a little if any Thursday as northerly winds bring cold air back to the state.

Southerly winds in advance of a low pressure area brought some moderation to the overnight lows. Temperatures were down to around 10 in the northeastern part of the state around midnight but rose this morning. Readings before sunrise were in the teens in the northeast to the 20s southwest.

The regular December meeting of the Fayette County Health Board has been re-scheduled for Tuesday, December 14, at 1 p.m., at the Health Department.

KENT, Wash. (AP) — When it comes to sculpture, Roland Winbeckler takes the cake. He also takes butter cream and chocolate frosting.

Winbeckler, 30, is among the world's leading cake sculptors. His status was certified last month when he picked up two gold medals at the World Culinary Olympics in Frankfurt, West Germany.

"It's really rare for the judges to award more than one gold medal," Winbeckler said. "I think they especially liked the pound-cake crab and the chocolate paintings."

His fame preceded him. Winbeckler, who never thought about sculpture in any medium until he took a bakery job five years ago, has done hundreds of cakes for groups and personalities around the country.

Last month, for example, Winbeckler created a life-size Col. Harlan Sanders, bucket of chicken in hand, for the colonel's 86th birthday.

When the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Circus ordered a cake for their lion tamer's birthday, it featured a life-size Bengal tiger jumping from the center.

Winbeckler said he's also been asked about doing birthday cakes for entertainers Lucille Ball and Sammy Davis Jr.

TV Viewing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — NBC dumped its Wednesday TV movies because it seems ABC's "Bionic Woman," "Baretta" and "Charlie's Angels" were getting most of the Nielsen action and CBS shows the rest.

So tonight, NBC tries again with four comedies — three of them new — and "The Quest." If this roster gets good ratings, NBC may sit down in shock, which is like standing in shock, only lower.

The newbies are "CPO Sharkey," "The McLean Stevenson Show" and "Sirota's Court." The epic starring Stevenson, former chief medic on "M-A-S-H," wasn't available, NBC claims, for an advance peek.

The other two were, of those two, I'd say the best is "Sirota's Court." It stars Michael Constantine as a wry, humane night court judge and features fine writing, acting, direction and pace.

It's sort of a courtroom "Barney Miller." If future episodes are as good as tonight's, "Sirota" will be what they call a hit series.

In the judge's premiere session, we learn that he has a thing going with his attractive court clerk (Cynthia Harris).

He even wants to marry her. True, she's already married, but he's quick to note, "Your husband was bowing in 1968 and didn't return."

The plot concerns a reporter (Victor Buono) who is writing an article called, "The 10 Worst Judges in America." He's present to watch the way Sirota works, much to the alarm of the lady court clerk.

Sirota isn't worried. "Wonder who the other nine are?" he asks.

Her fears prove groundless, even though the judge's justice-dispensing is deceptively casual, quite informal, frequently funny and always laced with respect for all the court inmates.

He has been in the weird world of night-court so long he doesn't even bat an eye when an earnest young lawyer (Kathleen Miller) demands an immediate trial for a young lowlife by explaining, "My client is going on a religious retreat tomorrow."

The assorted characters and situations are wild, but the show is low-key. It isn't a shouting comedy, only a very good one.

Oddly enough, the lack of shouting seems to be the main flaw in "CPO Sharkey," in which Don Rickles, comedy's Merchant of Venom, plays a Navy chief petty officer of 24 years' service.

He tries to cope with the new, tolerant Navy while training new sailors at the Navy's home for innocent recruits in San Diego, Calif.

As Rickles bellows at people in night clubs, you'd think he'd be perfect as a grizzled chief who bellows at boots. Alas, only faint echoes of the old, loveable Donald emerge in tonight's premiere.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Unsafe amounts of PCBs, chemicals linked to cancer, have been found in catfish in the Ohio River, according to a new study.

The results of the study appear in a copyrighted article in today's editions of the Louisville Courier-Journal.

The study, by the Ohio River Valley Water Sanitation Commission (ORSANCO), found that catfish at six of eight Ohio River sites between Louisville and Pittsburgh contained PCB levels above federal standards.

PCB levels at three sites below Louisville did not exceed federal safety levels, the study said.

ORSANCO officials said they could not explain the increase in the PCB level.

Congress recently banned further production of PCBs, which are used widely in the electrical industry.

In the year 1850 Ohio canals carried 26 times as much freight as railroads, and 10 years later were carrying only half as much as the railroads.—AP

Government intrusion into farming rapped

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Government intrusion into private industry is a major obstacle facing agriculture, the executive vice president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation told delegates to the group's 58th annual meeting Tuesday.

C. William Swank said government intrusion into private industry when the country is not at war and when the industry is not asking for it "is a giant step toward nationalization of the industry."

Swank was critical of those who propose eating less meat in this country to help the malnourished of the world.

"This action is damaging unless an equivalent amount of money for the meat is sent to these people so they can buy food," he said. "We don't have a food problem in hungry nations, we have an income problem."

"This could have the effect of taking away opportunity for profit in the name of stabilizing food prices for the benefit and comfort of consumers," Swank said.

"This process could result in less food being available and in the long run result in higher prices, rather than lower."

Swank stressed that farmers, in order to keep agriculture free, must point out that every consumer will be better off with a highly efficient and productive agriculture and that the economy will benefit from such a system.

Battery theft checked

Washington C.H. police officers investigated an alleged battery theft Tuesday, while Fayette County sheriff's deputies reported a mailbox larceny.

Royal Kearns Jr., 420 Broadway St., told police officers that sometime between 5 p.m. Monday and 6 a.m. Tuesday, a $60 battery was removed from his automobile while it was parked at the rear of his residence.

A mailbox and nameplate valued at $16 belonging to Clifford Daugherty, 2400 U.S. 62-SW, were reportedly removed from a post sometime around 3 a.m. Tuesday.

Alert neighbor subdues blaze

Due to the efforts of an alert neighbor, a fire in a Washington C.H. home was extinguished Tuesday, Washington C.H. firemen reported.

Robert Mitchell, 414 W. Elm St., succeeded in removing and extinguishing a blazing pan of grease which had caught fire at 5:58 p.m. Tuesday on a stove in the Ely San-derson residence, 418 W. Elm St.

Noticing flames coming from the kitchen area of the apparently unattended residence, Mitchell removed the burning pan of grease and meat, and extinguished the fire outside.

The fire was out by the time firemen had arrived, though damages to the house were estimated at $300.

Arrests

POLICE

TUESDAY — Stephen J. Haines, 34, of Sabina, check fraud; Donald M. Carr, 36, of Jeffersonville, reckless operation; Jackie N. Garrison, 32, of 604 S. Elm St., felonious assault.

Fayette County sheriff's deputies combined forces early Wednesday with a Columbus police helicopter crew and members of two other law enforcement agencies in the apprehension of two burglary suspects.

While on routine patrol at approximately 2 a.m. Wednesday, Fayette County sheriff's deputies Charles W. Wise and Donald L. Cox were dispatched to the scene of an alleged burglary just south of the Fayette-Pickaway county line.

A Pickaway County sheriff's deputy had requested aid from the Fayette County Sheriff's Department and the Mount Sterling Police Department after he had observed two men fleeing the scene.

'Queen Kong' under fire

Films and cost $632,000. It takes the Queen to the top of the London Post Office tower, in emulation of King Kong's New York climb to the top of the Empire State Building in 1933 and to the top of the World Trade Center in 1976.

One of the King's attorneys, Nicholas Browne-Wilkinson, told the High Court that "Queen Kong" has "an appalling script" which RKO and De Laurentiis "feel cannot do anything but repercu poorly on their reputation if it is thought that King Kong is associated with that."

Santa and the Giant Fighter

ONCE UPON A time there lived a little boy named William Henry Christopher Preeserve.

What a remarkably long name for a small boy to have! What was even more remarkable was the amount of disturbance he caused.

Boys are sometimes naughty, everyone knows, and they are expected to be a problem now and then. But it seemed that because this boy had three names he got into as much trouble as three boys!

For one thing he did not like school. He day-dreamed. He talked out loud. He made strange faces. And he simply would not study his lessons.

"Two plus two and six minus four!" he complained to his mother. "Who cares about all that? When I grow up I am going to be a giant killer. I don't have to study for that."

His mother told him there were no such things as giants but William Henry Christopher insisted there were. He said giants were bigger than mountains and meaner than witches and a whole army of soldiers could not strike a strong giant down.

"You know perfectly well that's all make-believe," said his mother.

"It is not make-believe! I myself have seen lots of giants!"

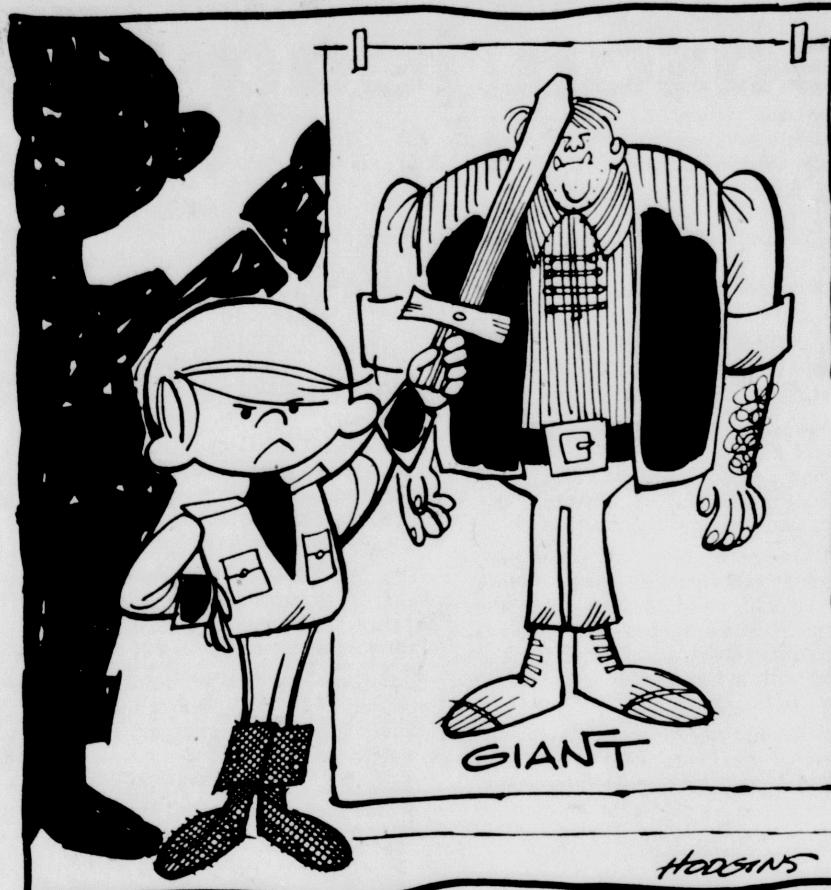

That was another worrisome thing about the boy. He told stories. Because, of course, he hadn't really seen lots of giants. Not even one. If he had why hadn't anyone else seen one? But he pretended he had and if you pretend something hard enough it's practically the same thing as true.

He made himself a sword out of two pieces of wood from an old orange crate. This was to fight giants with, he said. He was always talking about the giant fights he expected to have. It was very tiresome.

Often while eating dinner or getting ready for his bath he would tell stories about giants he had seen. His parents were sick of these stories. They no longer listened. They hoped if they didn't listen he would stop pretending.

Then one day in school the class was having a spelling lesson. The teacher wrote CAT in big letters on the blackboard. While her back was turned William Henry Christopher stood up and announced that on the way to school that morning he had seen a giant who had followed him all the way to the classroom.

"And he's probably hiding in the cloak room this very minute!"

William Henry Christopher
Preeserve believed in giants.

This was very upsetting to the class and naturally the teacher complained to the boy's parents.

That night the boy's father spoke very sternly. It was near Christmas and the father said: "You stop this talk about giants or Santa Claus isn't coming to your house this year."

William Henry Christopher said, "Father have you ever seen Santa Claus?"

"Of course not," said the father, lighting his pipe. "But if you don't behave yourself he'll not leave anything in your stocking, you'll see."

"But," said the boy, "If there's a Santa Claus why can't there be giants?"

"Because I say so!" retorted the father, crossly and he spilled his pipe all over the rug.

"But there are!" cried the boy. "I know because —"

His father got to his feet and shouted. "Go to bed! No supper for you tonight!"

William Henry Christopher went to his room and got into bed without taking off his clothes.

I'm going to run away, he thought. I'll show them. They'll be sorry.

But it was really too cold and too dark and he was too tired to run away just then. He pulled the covers over his head and went to sleep. At least he thought he was asleep but he couldn't have been because very clearly he heard a tap-tap-tap at the closet door and a high pitched voice from inside the closet cried out, "Hey, you! Open the door!"

William Henry Christopher jumped out of bed. It's a giant! he thought wildly. He snatched up his sword and threw open the closet door.

Overqualified job seekers out in cold

DETROIT (AP) — An employment agency for "overqualified" engineers and scientists is closing because the federal funds it sought for expansion are going to help hardcore unemployed and young job seekers instead.

Agency director Don Bennett said in 4½ years of operating on a shoestring budget he has helped 405 people, obtained jobs for 255, prepared 300 resumes and made 6,000 job referrals.

He said he feels the program, called REVEST (Volunteer Engineers Scientists and Technicians) filled a valuable need because professionals "often are much less competent job-seekers than the average worker."

Bennett said his agency, closing today, taught clients techniques to sell themselves to employers, since many professionals wrongly assume they will be hired for any job for which they are trained. Other problems professionals face are age barriers and companies' reluctance to hire people considered overqualified or overeducated, he said.

"A lot of professionals see themselves and their job as one," said Bennett. "When the job goes, the man loses part of himself. The result can be devastating — anger, frustration, sometimes actual mental disintegration."

Bennett's program, which has had only one or two paid employees and a few volunteers, also offered job search and solicitation services, evaluation, workshops and counseling.

The program was started with federal funds, and operated with the use of local funds. Its office, phone and mail service were paid for by the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

Main sources of income during the past two years have been a $25,000 federal grant administered by the Wayne County Office of Manpower, plus $100 monthly from the Affiliate Council of the Engineering Society of Detroit for operating expenses.

Bennett said he decided to shut down after the U.S. Department of Labor turned down his request recently for $250,000 to expand.

A federal official told Bennett all such funding was earmarked for helping hard-core unemployed and young people.

Panthers stung in important early season league battle

By MARK REA
Record-Herald Sports Editor

EBER — It may be a little early in the season to start speaking of "must" games on your schedule. But, Miami Trace certainly lost one last night they would have rather had in the win column.

The Panthers stayed close to visiting Wilmington in the first half but a sloppy third quarter turned the game into a night of gloom.

Trace got the cold hand from the field after intermission and never recovered, dying a nasty 57-46 death.

This game might be considered important this early in the season because of the opponents. Miami Trace and Wilmington were picked to finish one-two in the SCOL cage battle this season.

The Panthers would have liked to knock off their chief contender instead of hoping someone else will do it.

Last night, both teams strained to work out some early season rust spots with Wilmington having much more success with the oil can.

The Hurricane murdered the Panthers under the boards. Wilmington's Gary Williams, David Nared and Bob Williams picked off countless rebounds, limiting Trace to only one shot.

Gary Williams pounded the glass for 21 rebounds in the contest while Nared pulled down 11 rebounds.

Wilmington opened a quick 8-2 lead on four different jumpers from four different players. But, like last Saturday at Lancaster, Miami Trace fought back to tie the contest at 10-10.

A three-point play by junior Art Schlichter knotted the score before Tony Berlin and Nared put the Hurricane back on top, 14-10. Senior forward Dan Gifford closed out the first period with a free throw to make the score 14-11.

The second quarter was the closest period of the game with Wilmington holding a one-point edge in the scoring. Berlin scored six points for Wilmington while Schlichter and Gifford pooled their shooting talents for seven of Trace's 11 points.

Wilmington took a unstable 26-22 lead into the locker room.

In the third period, the Hurricane started to pull away as Schlichter and Gifford landed in foul trouble. Schlichter committed his third personal in the beginning of the period and Gifford was slapped with his third near the end.

Behind Berlin, Gary Williams, and Nared, the Hurricane riddled the MTHS nets for 18 points while allowing only 12. As a result, Wilmington held a commanding 44-34 third quarter lead.

The Panthers cut the lead to six points on a jump shot by junior Bill Hanners and a pair of free throws by Schlichter early in the fourth quarter.

But, Gary and Bob Williams erased those four points with four of their own to give Wilmington another 10-point spread.

From that point, the Panthers rolled over and died as Steve Williams made the last free throw of the evening on an intentional foul to give a 57-46 win to Wilmington.

Berlin led all scorers with a 22 point performance. Gary Williams and Nared each scored in double digits for the Hurricane with 12 counters each.

Schlichter was once again the big gun for the Panthers, dropping 17 points through the iron. Gifford was the only other Trace player to dent the double figure barrier with an 11 point barrage.

The Panthers were beaten with field goals as the Hurricane rammed 26 floor shots through the hoop to just 17 for Miami Trace.

Miami Trace, now 1-1 overall and 0-1 in the league, plays another league contest this Friday against the hosting Hillsboro Indians.

Less than 1000 brave Buffalo snow to watch Sonics, Braves

By ALEX SACHARE

AP Sports Writer

Suppose they held a basketball game and nobody came ...?

It almost happened in Buffalo Tuesday night, but 994 hardy souls braved 10-degree temperature and clambered through two feet of snow to get to Memorial Auditorium.

The gate sale, the number of tickets sold at the door, was 73. Count 'em '73.

It was the lowest total attendance in the history of the Buffalo franchise.

But for their efforts, the Braves' faithful followers were rewarded with a 119-114 victory over the Seattle SuperSonics, as Bob McAdoo scored 17 of his 29 points in the final quarter.

McAdoo iced it with his three free throws.

129, the Milwaukee Bucks defeated the Portland Trail Blazers 115-106 and the Los Angeles Lakers beat the Washington Bullets 109-102.

After falling behind 16-7 in the first five minutes, the Braves scored 12 points in a row and were on top of the rest of the way. Bruce Seals led a Seattle comeback, scoring 10 of his 20 points in the fourth quarter before fouling out, then rookie Bob Wilkerson converted an offensive rebound, putting the Sonics within 116-114 with 12 seconds left.

But McAdoo iced it with his three free throws.

Nets 104, Knicks 103

In the first regular-season meeting between the two New York clubs, Nate Archibald scored 15 of his game-high 34 points in the fourth quarter, sparking the Nets to victory. Backcourtmate John Williamson added 24.

Bucks 115, Blazers 106

Brian Winters scored a career-high 43 points as the Bucks snapped a nine-game losing streak and won their first game for new head Coach Don Nelson.

Pacers 103, Suns 97

Wil Jones and Dave Robisch combined for 25 points in the fourth quarter as the Pacers erased a nine-point deficit and beat Phoenix.

Warriors 125, Bulls 120

Chicago went down to its 12th straight defeat, a team record, as Phil Smith scored 33 points and Rick Barry 28 for the Warriors. One bright spot for the Bulls was the play of rookie Scott May, who netted 24 points.

Cavaliers 99, Nuggets 93

Cleveland posted its 12th straight home victory and fourth straight win over-all as Bobby Smith scored 20 points, 14 in a second-period surge and six in the closing moments.

Spurs 130, Pistons 129

Larry Kenon and George Gervin scored 28 points apiece as the Spurs posted their eighth straight home victory. The game was decided at the foul line, where San Antonio was 36 of 52 and Detroit 16 of 19.

Lakers 109, Bullets 102

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar had 26 points and a season-high 10 assists for Los Angeles, which withstood a 35-point effort by Washington's Phil Chenier.

Grades seven through nine will show off their basketball teams along with their cheerleaders and will run drills and scrimmage.

Also introduced will be the reserve team and cheerleaders and they will scrimmage the freshmen.

Then, the varsity team members and cheerleaders will be introduced and they will play a regulation game against various WSHS alumni stars.

Included on the alumni will be Doug Phillips, Danny Mahoney, Chuck Byrd, Mark Shaw, and Bucky Burbage.

The game will be strictly exhibition with no outcome on the regular season.

Admission for the preview will be $1.50 for adults and $1.25 for students. According to Creamer, regular season reserve seat tickets will be honored at the games.

McClain remains perfect; stops Hillsboro in overtime thriller

The Greenfield McClain Tigers upheld their season record to a perfect 3-0 with a heartstopping overtime win over Hillsboro last night.

McClain wiped out a 20 point bulge in the last half to tie the game and win it in overtime.

Senior Eric Dunson kept his sights on an early SCOL scoring lead with a 28 point performance. Fellow senior Church Cole rammed home 17 counters to aid Dunson.

Senior standout Tim Fuller of Hillsboro led all scorers with his 31 point salvo, scoring over half of his team's points.

Fuller was helped out by Tim Sharkey and Gary Coffman who had 11 and 10 points, respectively.

McClain joins Wilmington for the early season SCOL lead with identical 1-0 records. Hillsboro joins Miami Trace at the bottom of the early pack with 0-1 records.

McClain travels to Circleville this Friday to try to make it four in a row while Hillsboro entertains Miami Trace the same night.

Six Panthers earn All-Ohio berths

COLUMBUS — Six members of the SCOL champion Miami Trace Panthers have earned all-state honors. Art Schlchter and Bill Hanners made the second team of offense while Bill Warnock made the defensive second team.

Offensive center Sam Grooms made the third team offense while Rex Coe and Dennis Combs received honorable mention in the state.

Panther head coach Fred Zechman narrowly missed being named Ohio coach of the year, being beaten by Stow Walsh's Bill Ricco.

McCoy places fourth nationally

County welders fare well in competition

Four Fayette County youths fared well in arc welding competition sponsored by the Lincoln Arc Welding Foundation.

Jim McCoy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn McCoy, 1839 Ohio 734, placed fourth in national competition. McCoy, a 1976 graduate of Miami Trace High School, received $250 for his efforts. In addition, Miami Trace High School will receive a plaque and $100. McCoy's welding project was a tilting table for trimming the feet of livestock. He completed the work as a shop project in vocational agriculture.

Fred Melvin, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Melvin, 6982 West Road, placed third in the agricultural division in a 13-state region sponsored by the Lincoln Arc Welding Foundation. Melvin received $100 for his efforts. His welding project was a folding sheep fitting stand.

Randy BEEKMAN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon BEEKMAN, 1877 Lampe Road, and

Doug Welsh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Welsh, 10193 Ohio 38-N, placed fifth in the 13-state regional competition. They worked together on welding a weight transfer sled for pulling garden tractors at the Fayette County Fair. They received $50 for their efforts.

Each of the youths were required to prepare a written report along with drawings and photographs of their projects.

Earlier in the day, an Amtrak passenger train derailed near Sewell northwest of South Fayette on the other side of the river. Crews had not yet removed the wreckage from that derailment when the second mishap blocked the other tracks.

"Right now both tracks are tied up," Wheeler said. "That's a section where the railroad splits and one track goes up one side of the river" and the other up the other side.

Railroad officials have not yet determined the cause of either derailment.

The freight train was carrying coal and grain for shipment overseas, authorities said. The derailed cars were full of grain, according to deputies.

Following the Amtrak wreck, Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., called for a federal investigation of recent derailments of the Chicago Washington line through West Virginia.

In a statement from Washington, Byrd said he wants officials of Amtrak and the National Transportation Safety Board "to determine whether repairs or safety procedural changes should have been implemented earlier."

"I am also urging Amtrak officials to consider changing the equipment used on the James Whitcomb Riley to the newer fleet of Amfleet equipment, if these more modern and lighter cars will enhance safety aspects on this route," he said.

The Riley has derailed six times in the past year, four of those in West Virginia.

In Tuesday's Amtrak derailment, all six cars carrying 84 passengers left the tracks. Only one passenger was injured, but the others were stranded in sub-freezing weather for six hours while coaches arrived to continue the run to Chicago.

Mary Tyler Moore signs contract

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mary Tyler Moore, star of her own CBS television series, has signed an exclusive long-term contract with CBS-TV, says Robert Wussler, head of the network.

He said Tuesday that under the agreement, Miss Moore will star in at least two specials next season on CBS and star in a new series on CBS during the 1978-79 season.

Miss Moore's current series now is in its seventh and final season.

2 trains derail in West Virginia

FAYETTEVILLE, W.Va. (AP) — Both sides of the New River Gorge were blocked to rail traffic today following two train derailments in Fayette County Tuesday.

Fifteen cars of a 91-car freight train bound for Newport News, Va., derailed late Tuesday near the community of South Fayette, according to Police Lt. B.L. Wheeling of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway. Fayette County sheriff's deputies put the figure at 18 or 19 derailed cars.

Earlier in the day, an Amtrak passenger train derailed near Sewell northwest of South Fayette on the other side of the river. Crews had not yet removed the wreckage from that derailment when the second mishap blocked the other tracks.

"Right now both tracks are tied up," Wheeler said. "That's a section where the railroad splits and one track goes up one side of the river" and the other up the other side.
